ENGLAND ASKED NOT TO USE U.S. FLAG ON SHIPS

American Note Points Out It Will Subject Neutrals to Great Danger

ASK GERMANY [illegible] FLAGS

State Historical and Natural History Society

Note to Kaiser Inquires as to Steps to Be Taken to Learn Identity

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10. — The United States government today sent a note to Great Britain, making friendly observations on the use by British ships of neutral flags and at the same time dispatched a communication to Germany inquiring what steps would be taken by German naval commanders to verify the identity of ships flying neutral flags in the recently proclaimed zones of war around England and Ireland.

While the Lusitania incident is not mentioned, the representations to Great Britain are based on the statement of the British foreign office justifying the use of neutral flags by her merchantmen to escape capture. The American government points out how frequent and continued use of this stratagem might cast doubt on the character of vessels really entitled to fly the American flag and produce dangers to which neutral ships ought not be subjected on the high seas and in unblocked waters. In the note to Germany, it is understood that the United States asked how the German admiralty proposed to carry out in practice its recent proclamation of a war on merchant ships, and its warning that on account of the misuse of the neutral flags by belligerent vessels, neutral ships could not always be distinguished when an attack was made.

Submarine Changes Things.

The introduction of the submarine into warfare produces a situation not covered by any existing declaration of international law, but the United States has made it clear, it is un[illegible]stood, that an attack on a vessel flying the American flag without at first ascertaining that it was fictitious could not but be viewed gravely by the American government and bring about serious complications.

The United States has not fully expressed itself on the German proclamation, however, confining itself for the present to an inquiry for information on which future representation may or may not be based. There is no evidence, as yet, for example, that any American ship will be threatened, for German naval commanders may have a complete list and description of such vessels, making it possible to give assurances that no American ships will be molested. The communication merely seeks to learn more definitely what hazards an American ship might be confronted with if passing through the newly prescribed sea zones and what steps will be taken by the German navy to give unrestricted passage to American vessels travelling through the waters.

Both notes, which are to be presented by the American ambassadors at London and Berlin, are brief and couched in a friendly spirit. Neither makes a protest, but each points out how the recent developments may seriously embarrass the voyages of neutral ships on the high seas, which always have been considered free to them in times of war as well as peace.

To Be Made Public Soon.

Secretary Bryan declined to discuss either communication, but probably the text of both or a paraphrase will be made public as soon as the telegrams reach their respective destinations. The course of the American government has been more or less foretold by President Wilson, who has put out to callers that, while there is no rule of international law against the use of a neutral flag by a belligerent vessel and the ruse is often resorted to in times of war, nevertheless it was regarded as proper under the circumstances to make representations on the dangers to neutrals which might ensue from such changes in flag during a voyage of a belligerent ship.

While officials here do not know and have no intimation as to what the attitude of the British and German governments will be, it is generally expected that expressions will result which will reassure the United States as to the safety of its vessels. None of the high officials anticipate the development of any critical situation.

So far it is understood the United States has not indicated to any of the belligerents what its course would be if any American citizens traveling aboard belligerent vessels were lost in [illegible] and enemy merchant vessels. While the existing rules of international law, however, provide that all passengers and crew on unarmed belligerent [illegible] taken off before the ship can be sunk, this has been held to apply to war [illegible] which are able to care for passengers. The fact that a [illegible] itself by [illegible] a belligerent merchantman is a [illegible] when the subject is taken up by [illegible]

ALL CONTINUOUS SENATE SESSION RECORDS BROKEN

Ship Purchase Bill Deadlock Carries Debate Over 54 Hours, 11 Minutes

SENATOR NORRIS DESERTS

[illegible]s He Will Vote for Measure at Right Time; Disgusted With Filibuster

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Republican and Democratic senators who oppose the government ship purchase bill, aided by Senators Norris and Kenyon, progressive Republicans who have stood by the bill, forced an adjournment tonight of the longest continuous session in the history of the senate and made more uncertain than ever the fate of the measure which the administration has so urgently pressed upon congress.

Upon the adjournment, after 54 hours and 11 minutes of continuous debate, leading members of both houses of congress conceded that an extra session to be called soon after March 4 seemed inevitable. There were some, however, who still hoped that there yet might be time to dispose of appropriation bills and the ship purchase measure in some form before adjournment.

Adjournment came on a motion made by Senator O'Gorman, which prevailed by 48 to 46, after Senator Norris, deploring the fatiguing filibuster, had proclaimed his conclusion that opponents of the ship purchase bill could filibuster it to its death.

Disappointed over the loss of support from the progressive Republicans, but still hopeful that something yet could be done to save the bill, administration leaders of the senate would not admit tonight that the cause was lost. Anticipating a break in the senate, President Wilson had been conferring throughout the day with house leaders on plans of getting the bill before the house, and such a course may be taken, though the senate Republicans insist that their fight will continue until the end of the session, no matter what the administration forces may accomplish on the house side.

Would Lose on Recommittal.

Tomorrow the plans of administration leaders are to press Senator Fletcher's motion to recommit the ship purchase bill with instructions for its amendment to satisfy Republican Progressives. It is conceded to be probable, however, that this motion to recommit the bill to the commerce committee without instructions will prevail. Senator Kenyon will vote for the latter motion and Senator Norris is expected to do so also in view of his announced position tonight. That would give the opposition a majority of one with every senator voting.

Insurgent Democrats today, led by Senator Hardwick, sought to effect a compromise with their colleagues by which the party could be united in a renewed effort to pass the bill. Chances for the success of this move could not be predicted tonight. The plan suggested is that the warring Democrats hold a conference after the recommitment of the bill. Some of the insurgents then would propose that the bill be amended to provide that the proposed government ship purchase enterprise would be terminated at a stated period after the close of the European war and that purchase of interned ships of belligerents be prohibited. If the Democrats united on such a proposal it would drive away from the bill progressive Republicans who favor government ownership but, on the other hand, there is hope that it might stop the Republican filibuster against the measure. Some of the Republican leaders, when approached by insurgent Democrats, admitted that the proposal would remove the most objectionable features of the bill.

Means Death of Bill.

Senator Fletcher, in charge of the bill for the administration, said tonight that the administration forces appeared to be defeated in their effort to recommit the bill with instructions. He added that tomorrow Senator Gore's motion to discharge the commerce committee from his substitute bill would be in order. Opposition senators, however, insisted that such a motion would be defeated if pressed. In this case the fate of the bill must hinge either on a reconciliation of the Democrats or procedure in the house. There is also a strong probability that a motion may prevail after recommitment of the ship purchase bill to take up the postoffice appropriation bill. Senator O'Gorman, one of the Democratic insurgents, said tonight that the action of the senate, in his opinion, meant the death of the ship purchase measure.

While Democratic senators are deliberating on the next move to be made house Democrats may take up the fight. To this end President Wilson today held a series of conferences with [illegible] including Representatives Underwood, Kitchen, Henry, Alexander, Adamson, Flood and Padgett. It is understood that the [illegible] tentatively agreed upon is as follows:

The Weeks bill already passed in the senate, to be taken up in the house as soon as the sundry civil bill is disposed of, everything after the enacting clause to be stricken out and the [illegible] ship purchase bill [illegible] and the resulting measure to be [illegible]

DUVAL WEST TO BE PRESIDENT'S MEXICAN ENVOY

Will Make General Inquiries Into the Situation and Interview Leaders

VILLA CONTINUES ADVANCE

Famine in Mexico City Serious; Spend 25,000 Pesos for Bull Fight

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Duval West, former United States district attorney at San Antonio, Tex., was selected today to go to Mexico as the personal representative of President Wilson.

Secretary Bryan announced Mr. West's selection. The mission is similar to that of Paul Fuller, who some time ago conferred with various leaders and returned to this country with his reports. Mr. West carries no written instructions, but is commissioned to make general inquiries into conditions, interview the leaders, including Carranza, Villa and Zapata, and make clear to them the position of the United States government with respect to the protection of foreigners and their interests.

The length of time the president's envoy will spend in Mexico has not been determined, nor has any announcement been made as to whether he will see Carranza or Villa first. Eventually, he will go to Mexico City, there to operate with the Brazilian minister, who is caring for American interests, and John R. Silliman, also acting for this government. It is understood that, while Mr. West will point out the growing necessity for a permanent settlement of affairs in Mexico, he does not take any plan or suggestions from the United States. He has lived a number of years in Mexico and is understood to be generally familiar with the situation in the southern republic.

After conferences with President Wilson and Secretary Bryan, Mr. West left tonight for his home in San Antonio, Tex., from which point he probably will go to Vera Cruz to talk with General Carranza.

Carranza Forces Defeated.

News of the military situation in Mexico reaching the state department today was brief. Further reports of the defeat of the Carranza forces at Monterey were received, with the information that about 1,000 wounded troops have been put in trains and sent from the scene of the battle to the border. Work on the fortifications around Tampico "is proceeding energetically," according to a department telegram, in anticipation of an attack by Villa forces. The gunboats Zaragoza and Libertad have arrived with additional Carranza troops from Vera Cruz.

Enrique C. Llorente, Washington representative of General Villa, received a telegram from the latter saying he personally captured with his forces a station just in front of Guadalajara and expected to retake the city from the Carranza forces within another day or two. As soon as this city is taken Villa intends to concentrate on Tampico, planning not to move on Mexico City until the north is completely under his control.

In the meantime the famine conditions in Mexico City are growing serious. The following report of the situation there was issued tonight:

"There continues to be a shortage of the bread supply, and it is said that there was recently noticed a bread line in which there were about 800 waiting their turn. According to reports, the scarcity of bread and water is greater than it has ever been before. The people are eating bread made from bran. On February 8, the American club served cornbread to the needy.

25,000 Pesos for Bull Fight.

"The authorities still hold out the promise that they will bring about an improvement in the situation. It is said that, as there was no flour on hand on the morning of the eighth, a large but quiet demonstration was made in front of military headquarters by men of the working classes, protesting against the annullment of the fiat currency. It is stated that their protest was fruitless.

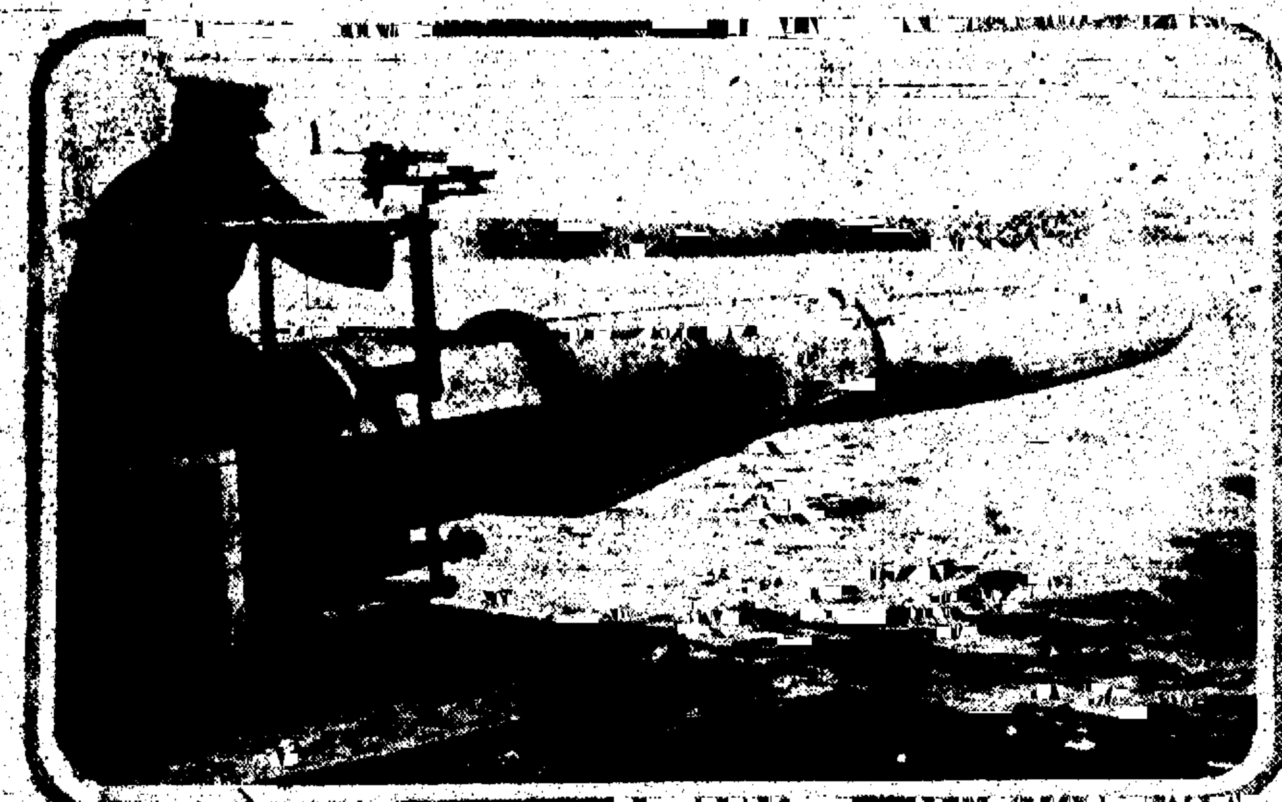

"It is reported that the Mexican Telephone company was taken over by the local authorities in Mexico City last Saturday and the management given to striking employes of the company.

"The department is informed that Felicitas Villareal was sent to Vera Cruz on the morning of the eighth. It is reported that several troop trains left Mexico City on the night of the seventh for the north.

"A report has reached the department to the effect that on February 7 the bull fight in Mexico City was well attended, and that the receipts were estimated at 25,000 pesos."

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 10.—Duval West, selected as President Wilson's personal representative in Mexico, is 53 years old and is a native of Austin, Tex. He has practiced law in Texas for 30 years, and has been a resident of San Antonio 35 years. He [illegible] attorney for four years during the Cleveland administration.

HOW GERMANY EXPECTS TO MAKE GOOD BLOCKADE

KIEL, Germany, Feb. 10.—Torpedoes, from destroyers and from submarines, are expected to be the means whereby the kaiser will "make good" his blockade of the British Isles, beginning on February 18, according to the imperial announcement.

In naval circles here it is said that the various dreadnoughts and battle cruisers of the navy will slip out of Helgoland Bight each convoying from a dozen to a score of destroyers and submarines. The large vessels will hover off the English coast, avoiding engagements with the enemy, but acting as supply ships and floating naval bases for the smaller boats and the "Unterseeboots."

It is believed that Germany possesses far more destroyers and submarines than any of her enemies imagine, since it will require many flotillas of the little craft even to begin an adequate blockade.

NO FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE IN PUEBLO

Press Dispatch Carried Name of Colorado Town Instead of Buffalo

Colorado Springs stockmen will be relieved to learn that the inclusion of Pueblo in the list of cities where the foot and mouth disease among cattle has reappeared was a mistake. The information was contained in press dispatches of Monday and was due to an error in transmission, Pueblo having been missent for Buffalo, N. Y.

The report that the Pueblo stockyards had been closed caused almost as much worry here as it did in Pueblo and the Arkansas valley. Heretofore, there had been no rumor even of the plague in Colorado or farther west than Wichita, Kan.

Harvey Nuckols, president of the Nuckols Packing company of Pueblo; government inspectors at the plant and C. C. Hartman, president of the stockyards, all denied the report immediately, but it was not until it was learned that there had been an error in transmission of the story that stockmen were fully assured of the mistake. The dispatch was from Washington and was contained in an official statement issued by the department of agriculture.

B. C. Allen of Broadmoor received dispatches yesterday confirming the correction sent out from Washington.

SOCIETY GIRL RETURNS WITH WOMAN PRISONER

Mrs. Kissell Davis Declares Long Trip as Special Deputy Was Without Incident, but Interesting

Declaring that her first experience as a deputy sheriff was far from being an unpleasant one, and thoroughly enthusiastic about the "honor system" of handling prisoners, Mrs. Betty Kissell Davis, 1110 North Tejon street, returned from St. Louis yesterday morning with Mrs. Edna Cox, who is wanted here on a charge of embezzlement.

"I enjoyed every minute of the trip," said Mrs. Davis shortly after her arrival in Colorado Springs yesterday. "It was indeed a pleasant and novel experience and I am glad I went."

Mrs. Davis brought her prisoner to Colorado Springs without handcuffs or a weapon of any kind, and relied entirely on Mrs. Cox's word that no attempt to escape would be made.

Mrs. Davis, who is prominent in society circles, has been interested for some time in uplift work at the county jail. With several other society leaders she has made frequent calls on the women inmates at the jail and has done much good there. When she learned that Sheriff Birdsall required a woman to go to St. Louis for Mrs. Cox, she volunteered her services and was sent on the mission.

"It was all quite new to me, bringing a prisoner across the country and being responsible for her," said Mrs. Davis. "I have always believed that the best way to treat people is with kindness and I tried out my theories. In this instance, I found that kindness was reciprocated. Instead of being prisoner and guard we traveled just like anyone else and had a pleasant journey."

"Do you contemplate other trips of a similar nature?" Mrs. Davis was asked.

"I would like to go again, but, of course, I don't know whether I will have another opportunity," was the answer.

Mrs. Cox was delivered to the sheriff and taken to the county jail to await trial.

WILHELMINA'S CARGO MUST GO THROUGH PRIZE COURT

Captain Declares He Made Falmouth Because of Damage Done Vessel in Crossing

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The British foreign office has decided that the cargo of the American steamship Wilhelmina must go through a prize court. The ship may depart from Falmouth as soon as the cargo is discharged.

It is officially confirmed that the Wilhelmina was neither convoyed nor ordered into Falmouth, but was compelled to make that port because of damage suffered in storms while crossing the Atlantic.

FALMOUTH, Feb. 10, via London, Feb. 11 (Thursday, 2:30 a. m.).—"It was the length of the Wilhelmina that saved her. If she had been another 160 feet long she would have been broken in two," said Captain Brewer of the steamer in commenting today on the voyage of the food ship from New York, which he said was the roughest voyage he had experienced in 25 years.

"One huge wave," he said, "struck the vessel with such force that the engine room staff was under the impression that a collision had taken place."

Captain Brewer repeated his previous statement that he put into Falmouth with the Wilhelmina solely because of the damage the vessel had sustained. He said he felt, moreover, that he would have trouble in the rough channel with his life-saving apparatus diminished. On one occasion, the captain said, all the boats were lifted from their davits. The iron bulkhead was ripped and the ship's side considerably damaged.

GERMANY PAYS BULGARIA $15,000,000 OF BIG LOAN

Second Installment of $100,000,000 Loan Against Treasury Bonds: Third Due Soon

SOFIA (via London), Feb. 10.—It is semiofficially stated that the Berliner Disconto Gesellschaft has placed at the disposal of Bulgaria 75,000,000 francs ($15,000,000), against treasury bonds as the second installment of a loan of 500,000,000 francs ($100,000,000), which was concluded in Berlin by a group of German banks last year. Of this amount Bulgaria has already received 120,000,000 francs. Another 75,000,000 francs is to be paid within the next two and a half months.

The loan, which bears interest at 6 per cent, with 4½ per cent commission, is to be utilized for the payment of debt coupons and for the purchase of various supplies.

LONDON, Feb. 11 (Monday, 2:23 a. m.).—The Daily Telegraph's Bucharest correspondent, in a dispatch concerning the Berliner Disconto Gesellschaft's loan to Bulgaria, says:

"It has been learned from an authoritative source that the first condition Germany sought to impose upon Bulgaria in connection with the German loan was a provision that she attack Roumania in the event of Roumania attacking Austria.

"According to the Bucharest newspaper, Adeverul, this condition was refused."

Allies' Airmen Fire Dusseldorf Arsenal

LONDON, Feb. 11 (Thursday, 2:40 a. m.).—A dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from Rotterdam reports a successful air raid by the allies over Dusseldorf.

"The Germans, according to the correspondent, "fearing such a raid at Dusseldorf, recently built a secret storehouse some distance from the arsenal, into which war material and [illegible]. The raiders discovered this store and dropped bombs on and set fire to it."

ORDUNA USED NEUTRAL FLAG, OFFICIALS ADMIT

Declarations of Passengers That U. S. Flag Was Used Brings Statement

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Officials of the Cunard Steamship company admitted tonight that the steamer Orduna, which arrived in this port from Liverpool today, flew "a neutral flag" for a time, while she was clearing the Irish coast. This statement was made after a number of the passengers on the British liner had declared that for nearly 24 hours on January 31 she flew the Stars and Stripes while passing through the Irish sea.

These passengers a[illegible] the American flag was [illegible] ing the [illegible] On behalf of the line [illegible] denial was made during the day that the Orduna had flown the flag except at the foremast, it being explained that it was customary for all ships to do this to indicate the country for which they are bound. Capt. Thomas M. Taylor, in command of the Orduna, declined to make any statement. He said he was under orders from the British admiralty not to talk.

The statement given out late today at the offices of the Cunard line simply referred to a neutral flag having been flown and did not specify the nationality.

The statement said: "The Orduna left Liverpool flying the English flag at stern and the United States flag, as customary, at the fore. After leaving Bar Lightship all flags were lowered. After leaving Queenstown, for about an hour and a half or two hours, she did fly a neutral flag while she was clearing the Irish coast."

Officials of the line declined to amplify this statement.

J. F. YEAGER AND J. B. LANG IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Golf Club Manager and Park Superintendent Injured When Auto Skids on Denver Road

J. F. Yeager, manager of the Colorado Springs Golf club, was painfully cut and bruised, and J. B. Lang, superintendent of the Colorado Springs parks, received slight bruises when an automobile in which they were riding left the road eight miles north of the city and plunged over an embankment shortly before noon yesterday. The car was slightly damaged.

Lang and Yeager were returning from Denver, where Lang had gone to select nursery stock for the Colorado Springs parks. The machine skidded in the sand and slid from the road. After being pulled back into the road, the car was driven into Colorado Springs on its own power. Yeager was taken to a hospital, where his injuries are being treated.

AUSTRO-GERMANS AND RUSSIANS IN FIERCE CONFLICT

Battles Without Precedent in History Taking Place in Carpathian Passes

KAISER IS UNSUCCESSFUL

Teutons Prepare to Attack La Bassee; Fighting Limited to the Artillery

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Under midwinter conditions the Russians and Austro-German armies are fighting another series of battles for possession of the Carpathian passes, which will decide whether the Russian troops will commence another invasion of Hungary or be compelled to evacuate part of Galicia, as they have done Bukowina.

The Russians have issued two official reports of the operations, according to which they have thus far had all the better of the fighting. Their right wing, at any rate, has succeeded in crossing the mountains for it has been engaged in a battle near Bartfeld and Svidnik, which are on the Hungarian side of the Carpathians and on the edge of the plains which sweep down to Budapest.

This army, too, threatens the rear of the Austro-Germans who, having entered Lupkow pass to the east, have suffered severe losses in a battle with another Russian force which was waiting for them there.

The hardest fighting, however, has taken place on the Galician side of the Tukholka pass, where on Sunday the Austro-Germans captured the heights in the region of Koziouwka, only to be driven from them after a bayonet fight which the Russian report describes as being "without precedent in history."

Number of Dead Enormous.

This battle is said by correspondents to have been terrific. The Germans brought up their best reinforcements to aid the Austrian army, and themselves led the attack. Backed by heavy artillery, they assailed the Russian position on the heights of Koziouwka, but found themselves under an enfilading fire from the Russians on parallel hills and were cut off from the main German column. They were then attacked by the Russian infantry, who drove them back at the point of the bayonet.

Attack followed counter-attack until the Russians had regained their old positions, leaving the slopes, according to their report, "littered with bodies of dead Germans."

The fighting here seems to have been as desperate and sanguinary as that which took place before the Warsaw lines during the last week and so far as can be judged by official and unofficial reports has been just as unsuccessful for the Germans. The latter have now assumed the offensive on the southern border of East Prussia, and the battle in the northern part of East Prussia neither official communication speaks.

At the other extreme end of the line in Bukowina the Russians are falling back before the superior Austrian forces, but still hold the greater part of the province.

Little Fighting in West.

From Rome comes the report that the Russians have reached Wlocławek, on the lower Vistula, 85 miles southeast of Thorn. If this is correct it suggests that the Russians, who were last reported at Sierpec, have made a move which may enable them to interfere with the transfer of troops from Poland to East Prussia, as Wloclawek is on the railway from Lowicz to Thorn.

There has been little or no fighting in Flanders, France or Alsace, although the artillery and airmen continue active. It is believed that the Germans are preparing for another attack on the British line near La Bassee, which, if successful, would open the door to the French coast from which the Germans hope to threaten England.

Meanwhile, the allies are reported to be making slow progress along the coast of Belgium, the capture of the Great Dune being of considerable advantage, as from it almost the entire coast as far as Ostend can be controlled by artillery.

The speeches in the Russian duma, in which the possession of Constantinople was spoken of as the ambition of the Russian people, have caused little or no discussion here, whereas a few years ago such an intimation would have been considered in a different light.

While the German loan to Bulgaria is discussed in the German press as though it assured Bulgaria's sympathy with the Teutonic allies, it is pointed out [illegible] that the loan was arranged before the war at a time when there was no idea [illegible] that Bulgaria [illegible] will the [illegible] which Turkey has suffered [illegible] to induce Bulgaria to maintain strict neutrality.

ENGLAND ASKED NOT TO USE U.S. FLAG ON SHIPS

American Note Points Out It Will Subject Neutrals to Great Danger

ASK GERMANY ABOUT FLAGS

Note to Kaiser Inquires as to Steps to Be Taken to Learn Identity

State Historical and Natural History Society

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The United States government today sent a note to Great Britain, making friendly observations on the use by British ships of neutral flags and at the same time dispatched a communication to Germany inquiring what steps would be taken by German naval commanders to verify the identity of ships flying neutral flags in the recently proclaimed zones of war around England and Ireland.

While the Lusitania incident is not mentioned, the representations to Great Britain are based on the statement of the British foreign office justifying the use of neutral flags by her merchantmen to escape capture. The American government points out how frequent and continued use of this stratagem might cast doubt on the character of vessels really entitled to fly the American flag and produce dangers to which neutral ships ought not be subjected on the high seas and in unblocked waters. In the note to Germany, it is understood that the United States asked how the German admiralty proposed to carry out in practice its recent proclamation of a war on merchant ships, and its warning that on account of the ... of the neutral flags by belligerent vessels, neutral ships could not always be distinguished when an attack was made.

Submarine Changes Things.

The introduction of the submarine into warfare produces a situation not covered by any existing declaration of international law, but the United States has made it clear, it is understood, that an attack on a vessel flying the American flag without at first ascertaining that it was fictitious could not but be viewed gravely by the American government and bring about serious complications.

The United States has not fully expressed itself on the German proclamation, however, confining itself for the present to an inquiry for information on which future representation may or may not be based. There is no evidence, as yet, for example, that any American ship will be threatened, for German naval commanders may have a complete list and description of such vessels, making it possible to give assurances that no American ships will be molested. The communication merely seeks to learn more definitely what hazards an American ship might be confronted with if passing through the newly prescribed sea zones and what steps will be taken by the German navy to give unrestricted passage to American vessels traveling through the waters.

Both notes, which are to be presented by the American ambassadors at London and Berlin, are brief and couched in a friendly spirit. Neither makes a protest, but each points out how the recent developments may seriously embarrass the voyages of neutral ships on the high seas, which always have been considered free to them in times of war as well as peace.

To Be Made Public Soon.

Secretary Bryan declined to discuss either communication, but probably the text of both or a paraphrase will be made public as soon as the telegrams reach their respective destinations. The course of the American government has been more or less foretold by President Wilson, who has put out to callers that, while there is no rule of international law against the use of a neutral flag by a belligerent vessel and the ruse is often resorted to in times of war, nevertheless it was regarded as proper under the circumstances to make representations on the ... which might en... the ... a voyage of a belligerent ship.

While officials here do not know, an... information as to ... of The British and German governments ... which will reassure the United States ... to the safety of its vessels ... anticipate the development of any critical ...

So far it is understood the United States has not indicated to any of the belligerents what its course would be if any American citizens traveling aboard belligerent vessels were lost in future ... German ... and enemy merchant vessels. While the existing rules of international law, however, provide that all passengers and crew on unarmed ... vessels must be taken off before the ship can be sunk, this has been held to apply to ... vessels which are able to ... for passengers. The fact that a submarine may endanger itself by approaching a belligerent merchantman is a consideration which may precipitate new rules when the subject is taken up by future international ...

ALL CONTINUOUS SENATE SESSION RECORDS BROKEN

Ship Purchase Bill Deadlock Carries Debate Over 54 Hours, 11 Minutes

SENATOR NORRIS DESERTS

Says He Will Vote for Measure at Right Time; Disgusted With Filibuster

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Republican and Democratic senators who oppose the government ship purchase bill, aided by Senators Norris and Kenyon; progressive Republicans who have stood by the bill, forced an adjournment tonight of the longest continuous session in the history of the senate and made more uncertain than ever the fate of the measure which the administration has ... urgently pressed upon congress.

Upon the adjournment, after 54 hours and 11 minutes of continuous debate, leading members of both houses of congress conceded that an extra session to be called soon after March 4 seemed inevitable. There were some, however, who still hoped that there yet might be time to dispose of appropriation bills and the ship purchase measure in some form before adjournment.

Adjournment came on a motion made by Senator O'Gorman, which prevailed by 48 to 46, after Senator Norris, deploring the fatiguing filibuster, had proclaimed his conclusion that opponents of the ship purchase bill could filibuster it to its death.

Disappointed over the loss of support from the progressive Republicans, but still hopeful that something yet could be done to save the bill, administration leaders of the senate would not admit tonight that the cause was lost. Anticipating a break in the senate, President Wilson had been conferring throughout the day with house leaders on plans of getting the bill before the house, and such a course may be taken, though the senate Republicans insist that their fight will continue until the end of the session, no matter what the administration forces may accomplish on the house side.

Would Lose on Recommittal.

Tomorrow the plans of administration leaders are to press Senator Fletcher's motion to recommit the ship purchase bill with instructions for its amendment to satisfy Republican Progressives. It is conceded to be probable, however, that this motion to recommit the bill to the commerce committee without instructions will prevail. Senator Kenyon will vote for the latter motion and Senator Norris is expected to do so also in view of his announced position tonight. That would give the opposition a majority of one with every senator voting.

Insurgent Democrats today, led by Senator Hardwick, sought to effect a compromise with their colleagues by which the party could be united in a renewed effort to pass the bill. Chances for the success of this move could not be predicted tonight. The plan suggestion is that the warring Democrats hold a conference after the recommitment of the bill. Some of the insurgents then would propose that the bill be amended to provide that the proposed government ship purchase enterprise would be terminated at a stated period after the close of the European war and that purchase of interned ships of belligerents be prohibited. If the Democrats united on such a proposal it would drive away from the bill progressive Republicans who favor government ownership but, on the other hand, there is hope that it might stop the Republican filibuster against the measure. Some of the Republican leaders, when approached by insurgent Democrats, admitted that the proposal would remove the most objectionable features of the bill.

Means Death of Bill.

Senator Fletcher, in charge of the bill for the administration, said tonight that the administration forces appeared to be defeated in their effort to recommit the bill with instructions. He added that tomorrow Senator Gore's motion to discharge the commerce committee from its substitute bill would be in order. Opposition senators, however, ... that such a motion would be defeated if pressed. In this case the fate of the bill ... either on a reconciliation of the Democrats or ... in the house. There is also a strong probability that a motion may ... after recommitment of the ship ... to take up the postoffice appropriation bill. Senator O'Gorman, one of the Democratic insurgents, said tonight that the action of the senate, in his opinion, meant the death of the ship purchase measure.

While Democratic senators are deliberating on the next move to be made house Democrats may take up the fight. To this end President Wilson today held a series of conferences with ... including Representatives Underwood, Kitchen, Henry, Alexander, Adamson, Flood and Padgett. It is understood that the program tentatively agreed upon is as follows:

... bill, already passed by the senate, to be taken up in the house as soon as the sundry civil bill is disposed of, everything after the enacting clause to be stricken out and the ... and the resulting measure to be

DUVAL WEST TO BE PRESIDENT'S MEXICAN ENVOY

Will Make General Inquiries Into the Situation and Interview Leaders

VILLA CONTINUES ADVANCE

Famine in Mexico City Serious; Spend 25,000 Pesos for Bull Fight

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Duval West, former United States district attorney at San Antonio, Tex., was selected today to go to Mexico as the personal representative of President Wilson.

Secretary Bryan announced Mr. West's selection. The mission is similar to that of Paul Fuller, who some time ago conferred with various leaders and returned to this country with his reports. Mr. West carries no written instructions, but is commissioned to make general inquiries into conditions, interview the leaders, including Carranza, Villa and Zapata, and make clear to them the position of the United States government with respect to the protection of foreigners and their interests.

The length of time the president's envoy will spend in Mexico has not been determined, nor has any announcement been made as to whether he will see Carranza or Villa first. Eventually he will go to Mexico City, there to operate with the Brazilian minister, who is caring for American interests, and John R. Silliman, also acting for this government. It is understood that, while Mr. West will point out the growing necessity for a permanent settlement of affairs in Mexico, he does not take any plan or suggestions from the United States. He has served a number of years in Mexico and is understood to be generally familiar with the situation in the southern republic.

After conferences with President Wilson and Secretary Bryan, Mr. West left tonight for his home in San Antonio, Tex., from which point he probably will go to Vera Cruz to talk with General Carranza.

Carranza Forces Defeated.

News of the military situation in Mexico reaching the state department today was brief. Further reports of the defeat of the Carranza forces at Monterey were received, with the information that about 1,000 wounded troops have been put in trains and sent from the scene of the battle to the border. Work on the fortifications around Tampico "is proceeding energetically," according to a department telegram, in anticipation of an attack by Villa forces. The gunboats Zaragoza and Libertad have arrived with additional Carranza troops from Vera Cruz.

Enrique C. Llorente, Washington representative of General Villa, received a telegram from the latter saying he personally captured with his forces a station just in front of Guadalajara and expected to retake the city from the Carranza forces within another day or two. As soon as this city is taken Villa intends to concentrate on Tampico, planning not to move on Mexico City until the north is completely under his control.

In the meantime the famine conditions in Mexico City are growing serious. The following report of the situation there was issued tonight:

"There continues to be a shortage of the bread supply, and it is said that there was recently noticed a bread line in which there were about 300 waiting their turn. According to reports, the scarcity of bread and water is greater than it has ever been before. The people ar eating bread made from bran. On February 8, the American club served cornbread to the needy.

25,000 Pesos for Bull Fight.

"The authorities still hold out the promise that they will bring about an improvement in the situation. It is said that, as there was no flour on hand on the morning of the eighth, a large but quiet demonstration was made in front of military headquarters by men of the working classes, protesting against the annulment of the fiat currency. It is stated that their protest was fruitless.

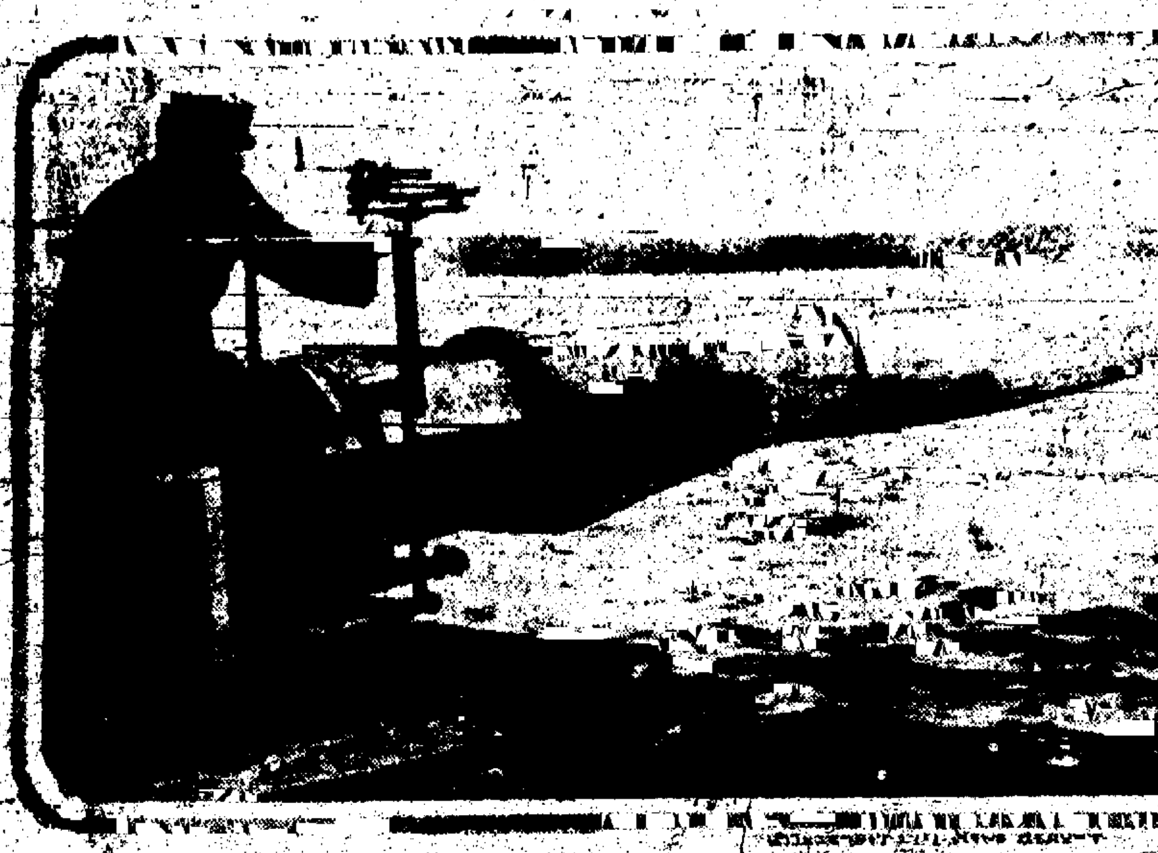

"It is reported that the Mexican Telephone company was taken over by the local authorities in Mexico ... last Saturday and the management given to striking employes of the company.

"The department is informed that Felicitas Villareal was sent to Vera Cruz on the morning of the eighth. It is reported that several troop trains left Mexico City on the night of the seventh for the north.

"A report has reached the department to the effect that on February 7 the bull fight in Mexico City was well attended, and that the receipts were estimated at 25,000 pesos."

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 10.—Duval West, selected as President Wilson's personal representative in Mexico, is 58 years old and is a native of Austin, Tex. He has practiced law in Texas for 30 years, and has been a resident of San Antonio 25 years. He ... United States district attorney for four years during the Cleveland administration.

HOW GERMANY EXPECTS TO MAKE GOOD BLOCKADE

KIEL, Germany, Feb. 10.—Torpedoes, from destroyers and from submarines, are expected to be the means whereby the kaiser will "make good" his blockade of the British Isles, beginning on February 18, according to the imperial announcement.

In naval circles here it is said that the various dreadnoughts and battle cruisers of the navy will slip out of Helgoland Bight, each convoying from a dozen to a score of destroyers and submarines. The large vessels will hover off the English coast, avoiding engagements with the enemy, but acting as supply ships and floating naval bases for the smaller boats and the "Unterseeboots."

It is believed that Germany possesses far more destroyers and submarines than any of her enemies imagine, since it will require many flotillas of the little craft even to begin an adequate blockade.

NO FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE IN PUEBLO

Press Dispatch Carried Name of Colorado Town Instead of Buffalo

Colorado Springs stockmen will be relieved to learn that the inclusion of Pueblo in the list of cities where the foot and mouth disease among cattle has reappeared was a mistake. The information was contained in press dispatches of Monday and was due to an error in transmission, Pueblo having been mistaken for Buffalo, N. Y.

The report that the Pueblo stockyards had been closed caused almost as much worry here as it did in Pueblo and the Arkansas valley. Heretofore, there had been no rumor, even, of the plague in Colorado or farther west than Wichita, Kan.

Harvey Nuckols, president of the Nuckols Packing company of Pueblo; government inspectors at the plant and C. C. Hartman, president of the stockyards, all denied the report immediately, but it was not until it was learned that there had been an error in transmission of the story that stockmen were fully assured of the mistake. The dispatch was from Washington, and was contained in an official statement issued by the department of agriculture.

B. C. Allen of Broadmoor received dispatches yesterday confirming the correction sent out from Washington.

SOCIETY GIRL RETURNS WITH WOMAN PRISONER

Mrs. Kissell Davis Declares Long Trip as Special Deputy Was Without Incident, but Interesting

Declaring that her first experience as a deputy sheriff was far from being an unpleasant one, and thoroughly enthusiastic about the "honor system" of handling prisoners, Mrs. Betty Kissell Davis, 1110 North Tejon street, returned from St. Louis yesterday morning with Mrs. Edna Cox, who is wanted here on a charge of embezzlement.

"I enjoyed every minute of the trip," said Mrs. Davis shortly after her arrival in Colorado Springs yesterday. "It was indeed a pleasant and novel experience and I am glad I went."

Mrs. Davis brought her prisoner to Colorado Springs without handcuffs or a weapon of any kind, and relied entirely on Mrs. Cox's word that no attempt to escape would be made.

Mrs. Davis, who is prominent in society circles, has been interested for some time in uplift work at the county jail. With several other society leaders she has made frequent calls on the women inmates at the jail and has done much good there. When she learned that Sheriff Birdsall required a woman to go to St. Louis for Mrs. Cox, she volunteered her services and was sent on the mission.

"It was all quite new to me—bringing a prisoner across the country and being responsible for her," said Mrs. Davis. "I have always believed that the best way to treat people is with kindness and I tried out my theories. In this instance I found that kindness was reciprocated. Instead of being prisoner and guard we traveled just like anyone else and had a pleasant journey."

"Do you contemplate other trips of a similar nature?" Mrs. Davis was asked.

"I would like to go again, but of course I don't know whether I will have another opportunity," was the answer.

Mrs. Cox was delivered to the sheriff and taken to the county jail to await trial.

WILHELMINA'S CARGO MUST GO THROUGH PRIZE COURT

Captain Declares He Made Falmouth Because of Damage Done Vessel in Crossing

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The British foreign office has decided that the cargo of the American steamship Wilhelmina must go through a prize court. The ship may depart from Falmouth as soon as the cargo is discharged.

It is officially confirmed that the Wilhelmina was neither convoyed nor ordered into Falmouth, but was compelled to make that port because of damage suffered in storms while crossing the Atlantic.

FALMOUTH, Feb. 10, via London, Feb. 11 (Thursday, 2:30 a. m.).—"It was the length of the Wilhelmina that saved her. If she had been another 100 feet long she would have been broken in two," said Captain Brewer of the steamer in commenting today on the voyage of the food ship from New York, which he said was the roughest voyage he had experienced in 25 years.

One huge wave, he said, struck the vessel with such force that the engine room staff was under the impression that a collision had taken place.

Captain Brewer repeated his previous statement that he put into Falmouth with the Wilhelmina solely because of the damage the vessel had sustained. He said he felt, moreover, that he would have trouble in the rough channel with his life-saving apparatus diminished. On one occasion, the captain said, all the boats were lifted from their davits. The iron bulkhead was ripped and the ship's side considerably damaged.

GERMANY PAYS BULGARIA $15,000,000 OF BIG LOAN

Second Installment of $100,000,000 Loan Against Treasury Bonds; Third Due Soon

SOFIA (via London), Feb. 10.—It is semiofficially stated that the Berliner Disconto Gesellschaft has placed at the disposal of Bulgaria 75,000,000 francs ($15,000,000), against treasury bonds as the second installment of a loan of 500,000,000 francs ($100,000,000), which was concluded in Berlin by a group of German banks last year. Of this amount Bulgaria has already received 120,000,000 francs. Another 75,000,000 francs is to be paid within the next two and a half months.

The loan, which bears interest at 5 per cent, with 4½ per cent commission, is to be utilized for the payment of debt coupons and for the purchase of various supplies.

LONDON, Feb. 11 (Monday, 2:23 a. m.)—The Daily Telegraph's Bucharest correspondent, in a dispatch concerning the Berliner Disconto Gesellschaft's loan to Bulgaria says:

"It has been learned from an authoritative source that the first condition Germany sought to impose upon Bulgaria in connection with the German loan was a provision that she attack Roumania in the event of Roumania attacking Austria.

"According to the Bucharest newspaper, Adeverul, this condition was refused."

Allies' Airmen Fire Dusseldorf Arsenal

LONDON, Feb. 11 (Thursday, 2:40 a. m.).—A dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from Rotterdam reports a successful air raid by the allies over Dusseldorf.

"The Germans, according to the correspondent, fearing such a raid at Dusseldorf, recently built a secret ... some distance from the arsenal, into which war material and ... were ... moved. The raiders discovered this store and dropped bombs on and set fire to it."

ORDUNA USED NEUTRAL FLAG, OFFICIALS ADMIT

Declarations of Passengers That U. S. Flag Was Used Brings Statement

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Officials of the Cunard Steamship company admitted tonight that the steamer Orduna, which arrived in this port from Liverpool today, flew "a neutral flag" for a time while she was clearing the Irish coast. This statement was made after a number of the passengers on the British liner had declared that for nearly 24 hours on January 31 she flew the Stars and Stripes while passing through the Irish sea.

These passengers a... American flag was ... ing the ... 6. On behalf of the line ... denial was made during the day that the Orduna had flown the flag except at the foremast, it being explained that it was customary for all ships to do this to indicate the country for which they are bound. Capt. Thomas M. Taylor, in command of the Orduna, declined to make any statement. He said he was under orders from the British admiralty not to talk.

The statement given out late today at the offices of the Cunard line simply referred to a neutral flag having been flown, and did not specify the nationality.

The statement said: "The Orduna left Liverpool flying the English flag at stern and the United States flag, as customary, at the fore. After leaving Bar Lightship all flags were lowered. After leaving Queenstown, for about an hour and a half or two hours, she did fly a neutral flag while she was clearing the Irish coast."

Officials of the line declined to amplify this statement.

J. F. YEAGER AND J. B. LANG IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Golf Club Manager and Park Superintendent Injured When Auto Skids on Denver Road

J. F. Yeager, manager of the Colorado Springs Golf club, was painfully cut and bruised, and J. B. Lang, superintendent of the Colorado Springs parks, received slight bruises when an automobile in which they were riding left the road eight miles north of the city and plunged over an embankment shortly before noon yesterday. The car was slightly damaged.

Lang and Yeager were returning from Denver, where Lang had gone to select nursery stock for the Colorado Springs parks. The machine skidded in the sand and slid from the road. After being pulled back into the road, the car was driven into Colorado Springs on its own power. Yeager was taken to a hospital, where his injuries are being treated.

AUSTRO-GERMANS AND RUSSIANS IN FIERCE CONFLICT

Battles Without Precedent in History Taking Place in Carpathian Passes

KAISER IS UNSUCCESSFUL

Teutons Prepare to Attack La Bassee; Fighting Limited to the Artillery

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Under midwinter conditions the Russians and Austro-German armies are fighting another series of battles for possession of the Carpathian passes, which will decide whether the Russian troops will commence another invasion of Hungary or be compelled to evacuate part of Galicia, as they have done Bukowina.

The Russians have issued two official reports of the operations, according to which they have thus far had all the better of the fighting. Their right wing, at any rate, has succeeded in crossing the mountains for it has been engaged in a battle near Bartfeld and Svidnik, which are on the Hungarian side of the Carpathians and on the edge of the plains which sweep down to Budapest.

This army, too, threatens the rear of the Austro-Germans who, having entered Lupkow pass to the east, have suffered severe losses in a battle with another Russian force which was waiting for them there.

The hardest fighting, however, has taken place on the Galician side of the Tukholka pass, where on Sunday the Austro-Germans captured the heights in the region of Koziouwka, only to be driven from them after a bayonet fight which the Russian report describes as being "without precedent in history."

Number of Dead Enormous.

This battle is said by correspondents to have been terrific. The Germans brought up their best reinforcements to aid the Austrian army, and themselves led the attack. Backed by heavy artillery, they assailed the Russian position on the heights of Koziouwka but found themselves under an enfilading fire from the Russians on parallel hills and were cut off from the main German column. They were then attacked by the Russian infantry, who drove them back at the point of the bayonet.

Attack followed counter-attack until the Russians had regained their old positions, leaving the slopes, according to their report, "littered with bodies of dead Germans."

The fighting here seems to have been as desperate and sanguinary as that which took place before the Warsaw lines during the last week and so far as can be judged by official and unofficial reports has been just as unsuccessful for the Germans. The latter have now assumed the offensive on the southern border of East Prussia and the battle in the northern part of East Prussia neither official communication speaks.

At the other extreme end of the line in Bukowina the Russians are falling back before the superior Austrian forces, but still hold the greater part of that province.

Little Fighting in West.

From Rome comes the report that the Russians have reached Wloclawek, on the lower Vistula, 25 miles southeast of Thorn. If this is correct it suggests that the Russians, who were last reported at Sierpec, have made a move which may enable them to interfere with the transfer of troops from Poland to East Prussia, as Wloclawek is on the railway from Lowicz to Thorn.

There has been little or no fighting in Flanders, France or Alsace, although the artillery and airmen continue active. It is believed that the Germans are preparing for another attack on the British line near La Bassee, which, if successful, would open the door to the French coast from which the Germans hope to threaten England.

Meanwhile, the allies are reported to be making slow progress along the coast of Belgium, the capture of the Great Dune being of considerable advantage, as from it almost the entire coast as far as Ostend can be controlled by artillery.

JAPAN LOOKS TO U. S. FOR SOLUTION OF ALL TROUBLES

Baron Chinda Discusses War; Admiral Dewa Praises Navy in Talk

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Baron Chinda, Japanese ambassador to the United States, said tonight at a dinner given by Secretary Daniels in honor of Admiral Dewa, Japanese representative to the Panama-Pacific exposition, that Japan was looking to America with strong confidence for the solution of "all troubles." His remark was interpreted by the other diners as applying to the European war.

The dinner was given aboard the presidential yacht, Mayflower, and Baron Chinda spoke in reply to speeches by Secretaries Daniels and Bryan, in which they expressed friendship for Japan and confidence in her hope for a continuance of friendly relations with the United States. The ambassador said he was thankful for the expression of the secretaries and indorsed fully their hopes for the continuance of good will and friendly relations. That their pledges of friendship should have been made aboard a man-of-war, he said, added significance. That a warship should be made a peacemaker, he added, made him "feel deeper."

Secretary Daniels introduced Admiral Dewa with an address in which he said the United States, as always, was desirous of making Japan a good neighbor and friend. Admiral Dewa, speaking through his aide, replied with similar expressions.

"Experience makes us pray," Secretary Bryan said, "for times when all questions will be submitted to reason and not force for settlement."

He said America's faith in Japan's spirit of peace never has been shaken, and that her desire and honesty of purpose to live with the United States as a friendly neighbor was never questioned.

Navy Stands for Peace.

Mr. Bryan asked Admiral Dewa to take home the thought that the United States entertained the most friendly feeling for the government and country across the Pacific. He complimented Baron Chinda for the faithful and full reports he had submitted as ambassador, and said that the two nations had given each other the best diplomats they had.

Admiral Dewa's address, read by Lieutenant Commander Uyeda, follows in part:

"The navies of our two nations have, when I come to think of it, very intimate relations. It is already a stale tale that Commodore Perry, as Mr. Secretary just referred to, was the first to knock at the dusty portal of old Japan, and that the introduction of my country to the world ensued.

"We look back with pleasant remembrances to the time when the commodore, with the iron will essential to the soldier and the sense of justice and righteousness on which the very foundation of this great republic rests, lent a guiding hand to my country through moments of doubt and uncertainty in her venture on the international seas.

"It would be idle now to dwell upon the enormous spiritual and material influence ever since exercised on Japan by this great and friendly republic. I would just call your attention to the fact that the first student sent abroad by our navy came to the United States. It is my exceeding joy to be able to say to you perhaps you know well that several colleagues of mine once had their education in this country, and that they, occupying important positions, have rendered a great service to the development of our navy.

"Gentlemen, I am only stating a fact when I say that the United States navy stands foremost in the world in many respects. Indeed, the fact that you are not held in by the reins of conventionality but have ever successfully leaped to lofty aiming points, wrests the admiration of everybody. But the greatest thing I find in your navy to admire is that is stands for peace."

SICK CHILDREN LOVE CASCARETS FOR THE BOWELS

Give "Candy Cathartic" for a bad, cold, sour stomach, constipation

Get a 10-cent box now.

Most of the ills of childhood are caused by a sour, disordered stomach, sluggish liver and constipated bowels. They catch cold easily, become cross, listless, irritable, feverish, restless, tongue coated, don't eat or sleep well and need a gentle cleansing of the bowels—but don't try to force a nauseating dose of oil into the little one's already sick stomach—it is cruel, needless and old-fashioned.

Any child will gladly take Cascarets Candy Cathartic, which act gently—never gripe or produce the slightest uneasiness—though cleanse the little one's system, sweeten the stomach and put the liver and bowels in a pure, healthy condition.

Full directions for children and grownups in each package.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this gentle, thorough laxative, which costs only 10 cents a box at any drug store. Adv.

RUSSIAN EXPENDITURES FOR 1915 $1,913,000,000

Revenues, but $1,566,000,000, According to Budget Voted by the Duma; Outline Urgent Measures

PETROGRAD, Feb. 10.—The budget today was voted by the duma and the council of the empire. The budget committee of the duma in its estimates for 1915 placed the revenues at $1,566,000,000; expenditures, $1,846,000,000; extraordinary expenditures, $67,000,000.

After the vote in the council one of the members, P. M. DeKaufmann, declared in the name of all the groups that whatever sacrifices were demanded by the war should be carried out to the end. This declaration was received by all the members of the councils with shouts of approbation.

The council of the empire adopted various resolutions, recognizing the necessity of urgent measures relating to:

1—The development of the productive resources of the country and their liberation from the pressure of foreign industries.

2—The protection of national agriculture, conjointly with the elaboration of the basis of Russia's policy relating to international commerce.

3—Revision of the whole system of duties, with the object of a more equitable imposition of such duties.

4—Action with reference to landed property of German and Austro-Hungarian immigrants.

5—The employment of prisoners of war in enterprises of public utility, separating as far as possible the Slav prisoners and placing them in special groups, part of whom might be able to do agriculture work on the estates of private land owners.

6—A vigorous investigation into all acts of crime and contraventions of international law by the troops and agents of the adversary powers and the establishment of the amount of damages caused by these.

7—Relief of the conditions of Russian prisoners of war.

WILSON RESPONSIBLE FOR RATE DECISION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Representative Goode of Iowa, Republican, threw the house into a tempest of debate today by declaring President Wilson had influenced interstate commerce commission in its decision granting freight rate increases.

The debate was on an item of $3,000,000 in the sundry civil bill for the physical valuation of railroads.

Representatives Fitzgerald, Moss and Gordon defended the president.

"No one seriously believes," said Representative Fitzgerald, "that the president has attempted to coerce members of the commission to render any decision in the way that the evidence would not justify. The president has not attempted to influence the commission on any question whatever."

CARLSON WON'T MAKE APPOINTMENTS SOON

DENVER, Feb. 10.—Gov. George A. Carlson today declared in a public statement that so long as the legislature is in session he will not concern himself with appointments. He said with one or two exceptions the appointive heads of the various state institutions are working hard. "It is natural that persons who fear they may lose a job ordinarily will work harder than a new appointee," he said. "The state of Colorado is in need of many things more vital than who may be in charge of certain state institutions. I will not concern myself with appointments until after the state legislature has adjourned."

BLIND BOYS MATCH PENNIES

So Acute Is Sense of Touch They Easily Detect Smooth Coin

From the Philadelphia Record.

Two blind newsboys who station themselves at Thirteenth and Market streets at midnight to sell the "bulldog" editions of the various morning newspapers are furnishing a spectacle that would call forth from Billy Sunday some choice Sundaygrams.

They, one white and the other colored, when business becomes slack, engage in a quiet game of matching pennies. Of course, they cannot see the head or tail of a coin, but they readily tell it by the touch.

One of them evidently tried to fool the other one night by using a smooth penny. He had some particular mark on it by which he could tell the head, and when the other lad matched him he challenged his opponent to prove his [illegible]. FIVE MORE ARRESTED IN TERRE HAUTE CASE

Follow December Disclosures; Indictments, However, Are Only in Two Counts

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 10.—Roy I. Shattuck of Brazil, Ind., Republican, who opposed Congressman Ralph W. Moss for reelection in 1914, and the four Republican candidates for Vigo county offices in 1914, who were arrested on federal indictments today, will be arraigned before United States District Judge A. B. Anderson here February 26. The five arrested today were released on bond.

The four arrested in Terre Haute are: Warren Soules, candidate for treasurer; William S. Fears, candidate for county recorder; William E. Myers, candidate for county assessor and Morton H. Holmes, candidate for county commissioner.

At the office of United States District Attorney Frank C. Dailey here it was announced that the arrests today followed the investigation in December when indictments were returned against 131 persons, of whom 120 had been arrested. Eighty-four of those arrested have pleaded guilty and 31 not guilty, 27 making the plea after their demurrer had been overruled by Judge Anderson. Five will plead tomorrow.

Today's indictments are similar to those against 126 Terre Haute men returned December 24, which charged a conspiracy to corrupt the election of November 13, 1914. The latest indictment, however, is in only two counts, while the first indictment was in four counts.

The alleged conspiracy, which caused today's arrests of Republicans, includes charges that the defendants tried to buy the last election for themselves and, it is alleged, in interlock the conspiracy, named in the first indictment, which was against Democrats and Progressives.

The first count of the indictment charges intimidation of voters and preventing qualified voters serving as election judges. The second count charges conspiracy to defraud the United States in the election of a representative to congress and in the maladministration of the election laws.

The Republicans indicted are said to have given Donn M. Roberts, who dominated Democratic politics in Terre Haute, part of $1,000 they are alleged to have paid to insure their election. Roberts, who is mayor of Terre Haute, is under indictment for alleged election frauds. The Republicans were not elected.

Federal Grand Jury Finds 33 Indictments

DENVER, Feb. 10.—Thirty-three indictments were found by the federal grand jury here today in its final report. Eight indictments, suppressed, are believed to relate to an alleged syndicate of land swindlers.

Oliver B. Howard, Samuel F. Mortimer, Albert C. Paget, Max Dorski, Theodore Frank and Francis B. Rudd, members of troop F, Fifth United States cavalry, were indicted on a charge of robbing the Walsenburg postoffice of $15,000 in currency sent from Pueblo to the First National bank of Walsenburg. Dorski, Rudd and Frank were indicted additionally for alleged concealment of knowledge of the theft.

A no true bill was found for George Baxter of Pueblo, charged with aiding and abetting in a money order theft.

Russian Statement

PETROGRAD, Feb. 10.—The following official communication from general headquarters was issued tonight:

"In East Prussia the fighting continues in the regions of Lasdehnen, Ragoupenen and Arisbiala. On the rest of the right bank of the Vistula and along the whole front on the left of the same bank of the river there have been no important modifications.

"In the Carpathians our troops are on the heels of the enemy in the region of Dukla, Lupkow and Uzsok, and continue to make progress. Here we have captured an additional 23 officers and 1,500 soldiers and have taken several machine guns and one mortar.

ly annihilating one of the German battalions opposed to us. Following this encounter, our cavalry moved forward in the direction of Sierpec, traveling over the road to Rypin.

"On the left bank of the Vistula during the day of February 8 the enemy showed no signs of activity.

"Judging from the corpses abandoned by the Germans in front of our positions they would appear to have lost in dead and wounded 'several tens of thousands' of men in the six days fighting in front of Borjimow, Goumine and Wola Szydlowiecka.

"In the Carpathians the fighting continues in the vicinity of Bartfeld and Svidnik. The enemy here undertook active operations but they did not thus continue and they finally retired leaving prisoners in our hands. In the vicinity of Mount Loupkow we continued our pursuit of the enemy and in one day we captured 69 officers, 5,200 men and 18 machine guns.

"German columns, having made their way over the Tukholka pass, delivered during the day of February 7 no fewer than 22 violent attacks upon certain heights in the region of Koziowka occupied by us. The Germans came forward to this attack several ranks deep, presenting a full front line.

"Under our violent cross fire the Germans here twice took possession of a certain height but they were dislodged by counter attacks delivered by our infantry.

"This success was preceded by long and violent hand to hand fighting with the bayonet which is without precedent in history. The losses sustained in this engagement by the Germans were exceedingly heavy.

"Attacks of the enemy in the vicinity of Wyschkowo also were repulsed.

"In the Black sea the former German cruiser Breslau (now a unit of the Turkish navy) bombarded Yalta in the Crimea. Our cruisers on February 8 shelled a Turkish battery at Trebizond and sank one steamer. Another steamer loaded with provisions and a two-masted schooner were sunk near Leros."

"In order to attack our position near Koziouwka, the Germans commenced their concentration of troops the night of February 7. Early the next morning they began the delivery of an irresistible offensive movement and their attack was supported by a very violent fire from their heavy artillery. They were successful in gaining an important height occupied by us, but they were promptly driven from this position before our bayonets.

"Attacks then followed without let up. Toward evening the Germans in very considerable number took possession of the highest position in our line from which they were dislodged only after a desperate fight. Before retiring they exhausted all their strength in a stubborn resistance to a general counter attack on our part, a feature of which was an unprecedented encounter with the bayonet.

"All the side of this hill was covered by German corpses. In front of one of our battalions more than 1,000 German dead were counted.

"Along with the trophies captured near Kamion are three mine throwers. At Rawka near the railroad to Skierniewice, Russian foot soldiers were successful in throwing eight bombs into the German trenches. These missiles caused great destruction. Russian aviators threw bombs on German troop trains near Rawka.

cupying the excavations thus made, notwithstanding a counter attack, which we repulsed with the bayonet.

"In the Argonne there has been artillery firing and the throwing of bombs on all sides, particularly in the region of Bolante and Bagatelle. According to the latest advices, it is reported that the Germans have delivered a very violent but fruitless attack on the fortifications of Marie Therese.

"In Lorraine, east of the forest of Parroy, and to the north of that forest, our advance posts have easily repulsed an attack of the enemy.

"The minor action, reported in the communication issued at 3 o'clock, to the northeast of Manonviller, ended in the pursuit of the Germans by our hussars.

"In the Vosges, at La Fontenelle (Ban-de-Sapt), an attack by the enemy has been checked."

PETROGRAD, Feb. 10.—The general staff of the Russian army has given out an official statement as follows:

"The Germans who gradually had been concentrating in East Prussia with fresh troops, began a series of energetic reconnaissances and on February 7, they opened offensive operations with considerable forces in the district between Horzele and Johannisburg. IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

FLUSH YOUR KIDNEYS OCCASIONALLY IF YOU EAT MEAT REGULARLY

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications. Adv.

Want Congress to Pay Strikers' Fines

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—An appeal to congress to appropriate about $292,000 to pay the fines and costs imposed by the supreme court on 200 labor union members in the Danbury hatter's boycott case was signed today by the Connecticut delegation in the house.

The petition, which will be presented to the house personally by each of the Connecticut representatives, sets forth that the plight in which the workmen find themselves is a result of the courts giving the Sherman antitrust law a construction which congress did not intend it to have and applying it to labor instead of limiting its application to combinations of capital.

On this ground it is contended that the nation should come to the aid of the defendants, many of whom, if compelled to meet the judgment, would lose their homes and bank accounts, while others would be made paupers.

M. L. Lawler, acting for the labor men, came to Washington today with the petition and conferred with the Connecticut representatives.

passed as quickly as possible by the house under a special rule. This bill, with the prestige given by passage in the house, to be then taken up in the senator and kept before that body until the end of the session if necessary. In case of no action before the end of the session an extra session is to be called on March 5.

Extra Session Inevitable.

This program was agreed to by Representative Flood and some other house leaders, who advanced the idea that since an extra session apparently was inevitable, the shipping bill should be laid aside temporarily, the appropriation bills passed by both houses and an extra session be called for the consideration of the shipping bill.

The house leaders were far from enthusiastic over the prospect of an extra session, and Representative Kitchen, who is to be majority leader of the next house, stated, after seeing the president, that he believed sentiment in the house was generally against it.

The belief that the filibuster against the bill could be continued until March 4, and that it would be impossible to pass the measure before the expiration of this congress, was given by Senator Norris as his reason for voting to break the long grind.

"I am not finding fault with senators," he said, "for doing what, under the rules, they have a perfect right to do. But these filibusters are increasing. It is unfortunate that we cannot decide [illegible] issue without a test of phy[illegible]h. It is a relic of barbari[illegible] ies on this subject conducted filibusters, and if the situation were to change tonight, the Democratic side would begin a filibuster on this very measure."

Senator Norris read his proposed amendment to the senate rules which would limit debate.

Absolutely Ludicrous.

"We stay here night after night," he said, "and are dragged out of our beds to answer a roll call when there are three or four senators in the chamber. It is ludicrous, it is foolish, except that the consequences are sometimes serious and the practice is engaged in by serious men. This flood of talk has no object but to kill time and kill the members. I don't know what day of the month it is or what day of the week it is. But I know it is February, and it will soon be March 4. You know, and I know, and God knows, that with about one-half of the members determined to continue this filibuster, they can absolutely prevent a vote on this bill until after March 1."

Senator Norris said that while he favored the ship purchase bill, he could not see why all the time from now until March 4 should be wasted in a useless effort to bring the measure to a vote.

"I understand that it has been announced from the White house," Senator Norris continued, "that if this bill is not passed, there will be a special session of congress soon after March 4. I assume that this is true. If this filibuster continues until March 4, we would have to have an extra session, anyway, to pass the appropriation bills. So there is nothing to be gained by continuing this fight and nothing to be lost.

"When the special session comes, as come it must, I will support this ship purchase bill heartily."

Ask Cummins to Explain.

Senators Walsh and Fletcher asked that Senator Cummins explain his declaration that the administration shipping bill ought to be entitled 'For the encouragement and protection of the shipping trust.' Senator Walsh said he had studied with great care Senator Cummins' substitute and could find no difference in principle from the administration bill. Senator Fletcher wanted to know how the Iowa senator could justify his position in view of [illegible] private shipping interests [illegible]

[illegible] that unless he [illegible] of reason, he could [illegible] demonstrate that the bill would operate in aid of the shipping trust. He had no personal knowledge of what [illegible] ship owners [illegible] were opposed to any legislation whatever on the subject [illegible]

STATE TO ASK GOVERNMENT FOR RECLAMATION PROJECT

Will Join Kansas in Asking for Series of Dams and Canals to Hold Flood Waters

DENVER, Feb. 10.—The Kansas legislature today asked the Colorado legislature to join in a memorial to congress asking the national government to construct a series of dams and reservoirs east of the Rocky mountains to impound all flood waters.

The Kansas memorial has already been sent to congress and a copy received today by Speaker Stewart is expected to come up in the house tomorrow.

The memorial proposes a national appropriation covering a period of years to be used in the construction of an elaborate series of canals, ditches and reservoirs. The two-fold benefits of the project, it is pointed out, would be the reclamation of the land and the prevention of overflow of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers. The memorial sets forth that enough property is destroyed each year by floods to pay for the construction of the proposed system.

Another memorial to congress presented in the senate today by Senator Lines asks that the exportation of wheat be stopped until August 15 of this year. Shortage of the cereal and the increased price of breadstuffs are set forth as the reasons the request should be carried out.

Among the short appropriation bills passed on the second reading in the senate today were:

Appropriating $10,000 for the state home for mental defectives.

Appropriating $10,000 for state reformatory.

Appropriating $17,000 for the state home for dependents.

Appropriating $10,000 for the state normal college.

Appropriating $20,000 for the soldiers' and sailors' home.

Appropriating $5,000 for a workshop for the adult blind.

Appropriating $20,000 for the state industrial school.

Appropriating $30,000 for state penitentiary.

During the enactment of these measures, Senator Hayden (Republican) offered an amendment abolishing the necessity of the signature of the members of the civil service commission to secure these funds. The amendment was lost, the Democrats voting solidly against it. Senator Adams, senate Democratic leader, however, told Senator Hayden that he was ready to vote on the question of repealing the entire civil service law, at once if it were made a special order.

Governor Carlson signed the bill removing legislative employes from control of the civil service commission today. The finance committee of the senate filed a report favoring the enactment of all bills to reimburse coal operators for property destroyed during the recent coal strike.

500 STRIKERS VOTE TO RETURN AT ROOSEVELT

Compromise With Chemical Company on Wages; Struck Because of Reductions

ROOSEVELT, N. J., Feb. 10.—The strike of employes in the two local plants of the American Agricultural Chemical company, which has been marked by disorders and bloodshed, was ended today. The men who still remained out, about 500, voted unanimously to accept the proposition of the officials, which provides for pay at $1.80 for a day of 10 hours.

This is an increase of 20 cents a day over the amount the employes were receiving when they went on strike, but is 20 cents less than they asked for. The men struck against the reduction of their wages from $2 to $1.60 a day. One hundred fifty of the men returned to work today. The others will report for work tomorrow morning. The company promised not to discriminate against the employes who had joined in the strike.

SENATE INCREASES HOUSE APPROPRIATIONS $3,082,670

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The senate appropriation committee today reported the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, carrying $39,537,303.50, an increase of $3,082,670 over the total as it passed the house. Of this, $2,286,100 was added for an agricultural census.

An Old, Family Cough Remedy, Home-Made

Easily Prepared—Costs Very Little, but is Prompt, Sure, and Effective

By making this pint of old-time cough syrup at home you not only save about $2, as compared with the ready-made kind, but you will also have a much more prompt and positive remedy in every way. It overcomes the usual coughs, throat and chest colds in 24 hours—relieves even whooping cough quickly—and is excellent, too, for bronchitis, bronchial asthma, hoarseness and spasmodic croup.

Get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Full directions with Pinex. Keeps perfectly and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It quickly loosens the dry, hoarse or painful cough and heals the inflamed membranes. It also has a remarkable effect in overcoming the persistent loose cough by stopping the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes.

The effect of Pine on the membranes is known by almost everyone. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract combined with guaiacol and other natural healing pine elements.

There are many worthless imitations of this famous mixture. To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and do not accept anything else.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

IOWA PLUMBERS CASE IS RUSHED TO TRAIL

Government Says Association Boycotted Houses Supplying Nonunion Men

DES MOINES, Feb. 10.—Judge John C. Pollock, in the case of the 36 master plumbers held on indictment charging violation of the Sherman antitrust law, surprised both counsel for the government and the defense by ordering the trial to proceed immediately in the United States district court here today. So rapidly did the court work that by adjournment this afternoon the jury had been completed and sworn, statements of Claude R. Porter, district attorney, and L. C. Boyle of counsel for the defense made and the first witness placed on the stand.

W. Emmett Crosby, of Philadelphia, who has been executive clerk of the National Association of Master Plumbers for the last 20 years, was the first witness called by the government, but was not questioned to any extent because of the time consumed by B. F. Welty of the prosecution in reading government records into the case. His testimony will continue tomorrow.

In his opening statement to the jury District Attorney Porter declared the prosecution will show that the defendants have conspired in a general way against plumbers' supply houses and jobbers by carrying on a system of boycott against the concerns who have sold materials to firms or persons not members of the national association. He told briefly of the Baltimore, New Orleans, New York and Cleveland resolutions alleged to have been passed at conventions of the association, and which read, in substance, according to the attorney, that the association would not patronize any concern selling to independent plumbers. Mr. Porter asserted that he would show an instance where a machinist was unable to buy material to plumb his own house because he was not a member of the national association.

Attorney Boyle, for the defense, declared that the defense will show that the national association was not formed to bring about a "restraint in trade," as is alleged, but it was formed for the purpose of educating and benefiting the general public, as well as the plumbers themselves.

"We will show that there are 200 plumbers who are members of the association in Iowa," said Mr. Boyle, "and there are 500 plumbers in this state who are not members of the association, but who have been able to procure all the material they want."

Lumber Magnate Pleads Guilty to Conspiracy

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 10.—Henry A. Merrill, a director of the International Lumber and Development company, pleaded guilty to three indictments charging conspiracy to use the mails to defraud in the United States district court here today. Sentence was deferred.

Merrill was formerly president of the City National bank of Mason City, Ia. He had charge of the lumber and development company's plant at Campeche, Mex., and when the promoters and other directors of the company were arrested, charged with obtaining nearly $6,000,000 by means of misleading literature describing the business of the company, Merrill came here and entered bail. He was not placed on trial with the other five defendants whose sentences were recently confirmed by the United States supreme court.

UNIONIZED EMPLOYES RECEIVE MORE THAN THE MEN OVER THEM

Enginemen Admit They Are Planning Another Big Wage Fight

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—"Distorted conditions," brought about by steady wage increases to unionized employes, while minor officials of the railroad were advancing by personal merit alone, were described as dangerous by J. W. Higgins, general manager of the Missouri Pacific system, when he testified today before the federal board of arbitration here.

"We have some superintendents of divisions and many foremen and similar minor officials who draw less money than the engineers over whom they have supervision," Mr. Higgins said. "This distorted condition is detrimental to the service, and it has grown considerably within the last few years."

The witness said that between February, 1895, and December, 1910, the engineers of the Missouri Pacific received wage increases amounting to $305,145 a year and the firemen $206,200, the total for the two classes represented in the present hearing of $511,345. These increases, he testified, were reflected by demands and grants to other classes of employes, with the result that unionized men altogether received increases of $2,076,700 a year and unorganized workers $934,821, a grand additional expense of $3,011,421 yearly to that road alone.

Under questioning by members of the board, Mr. Higgins said that these general increases were the result of relative compensations, but that the firemen had been gaining faster, and were nearer the wage standard of the engineers than 30 years ago. He laid what he called "inequitable" result to the special rules by which engine crews' pay is determined.

Contemplate Bigger Movement.

"You heard President Carter of the firemen's brotherhood say this morning that the next wage movement would be broader, showing that a new movement is contemplated before this one is completed. Has that been your experience?" asked H. E. Byram, vice president of the Burlington system, and a member of the board.

"Over my years of experience this has invariably been so," replied the witness, "and each increase in this class brings in its wake increases to all classes, organized or unorganized."

The witness denied that there ever had been any extended conspiracy to keep men off the payrolls. He said that rigid investigation of every applicant was demanded by considerations for public safety, and also because many letters brought by applicants were found to be forged.

"There are many places where applicants for work can get letters of recommendation for $2 or less," he added.

Toward the close of the testimony an attempt was made to get from the witness a definition of a branch line as applied to wage rates. Mr. Higgins replied that local conditions had so much to do with the question that its determination was best left to the men's local committees and the individual roads.

"Well, if we attempt to settle all the disputes raised here it would seem that we shall merely raise additional questions for future arbitration," remarked Charles Nagel, one of the arbitrators.

Determined to Fight.

"So far as that is concerned," interposed Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Engineers, "I can promise that if the railroad managers generally try to apply this award as they did that of 1910, this board surely will meet again."

During cross-examination, Messrs. Stone and Higgins sparred as to conditions of 30 years ago, when both were "railroading," as compared with today. Mr. Higgins thought the increased size of locomotives had not increased the difficulties of the engineer, saying: "We found it just as hard to make an engine pull its capacity then as the men do now, and we 'doubled' on many a hill. We worked harder for what we produced and got much less."

"And you were one of the committee that got better conditions and pay for the men," suggested M. Stone.

"Well, I may have aided," drawled Mr. Higgins, "but I don't want all the credit."

Mr. Higgins occupied the stand all day, and his cross-examination had only started when adjournment was taken.

Want to Increase Penn Indebtedness $40,000,000

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 10.—The directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad company at a meeting here today decided to request the stockholders for authority to increase the indebtedness of the company at the next annual meeting to the extent of $40,000,000.

Authority already exists, under action of the stockholders taken in March, 1908, to increase the indebtedness $80,000,000, so that the total authorization including the $40,000,000 will then be $120,000,000. The $49,000,000 of consolidated mortgage bonds recently sold are a part of this authorization. Therefore, there will be 571,000,000 of authorized increase remaining to meet the capital requirements of the company, which may be issued from time to time in such form of security as the board of directors may decide to be most advantageous.

CAN'T MAKE BREAD FOR 5 CENTS, BAKERS DECLARE

George W. Perkins Blames Farmer; New York Trying to Meet Sudden Rise in Prices

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Hotel men, bakers and prominent merchants met today at the call of Mayor Mitchel to discuss the rise in the price of bread in this city and to determine what measures can be taken, if any, to meet the situation. The price of bread was increased from 5 to 6 cents today by many bakers and the prices of rolls, pie and cakes were raised in proportion.

During the discussion the representatives of one of the largest baking companies of New York asserted it was impossible for any baker to buy flour at the present prices, make it up into bread and sell it at a profit at 5 or 6 cents.

George W. Perkins said it was the farmer who was holding his wheat for a two-dollar price; that it was being held at the original source on account of the war and the higher price that export wheat might bring.

"Your committee on food supply is trying every day to educate the people on substitutes," Mr. Perkins said. When asked what substitute he had for wheat, Mr. Perkins replied that he attended a dinner recently where oatmeal cakes were served.

"And they had the money to buy bread had they so wanted," he said.

HOUSE OF COMMONS VOTES MONEY FOR MEN IN ARMY

Also Passes Estimates for 3,000,000 Men; Sentiment Favors Compulsory Inoculation

LONDON, Feb. 10.—After two days of debate, during which many matters in connection with the war were discussed, the house of commons tonight passed, without division, the army estimates for 3,000,000 men, exclusive of Indians, and also, by "a token" vote, provided for the pay of the officers and men. By this vote the government will receive a "blank check" for this purpose.

Replying to points raised by members of the house, Harold J. Tennant, parliamentary under-secretary for war, said that, in case of a raid on England, General Sir Ian Hamilton was in command of a mobile force which was ready to go anywhere at any time.

There was considerable discussion of the question of inoculation against disease, in reply to which Mr. Tennant declared that sentiment in favor of compulsory inoculation was increasing and that the government was considering its adoption. Lord Kitchener, secretary for war, felt so strongly about the matter, Mr. Tennant said, that he was about to issue an order suspending grants of leave to those persons who declined to be inoculated.

The under-secretary added that the suggestion that the war office should consent to the enlistment of "bantam battalions" was being considered. In the mining districts, he said, there were many men under the regulation height who desired to serve in the army and some of them already were in training.

Fisherman Shot by Mexican Officers

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Feb. 10.—Jesus Saldana, a fisherman, was shot and killed by Mexican officers while he was crossing the Rio Grande in a boat from the American side near here today. Saldana is said to have been a refugee from Mexico. He was born and reared in Texas according to persons who claim to have known him. They said he had lived in Matamoros a short time but returned to Texas two years ago. It was not believed he had lost his American citizenship.

Col. E. P. [illegible], commander at Matamoros, tonight said a report made to him declared Saldana has accused Mexican soldiers and tried to return to the American side when the order was given to halt as he was crossing the river. Crossing the Rio Grande except at specified points is forbidden to Mexicans along the border here.

DENVER BAKERS WON'T RAISE BREAD PRICES

DENVER, Feb. 10.—Members of the Denver Master Bakers association at a meeting today decided not to raise bread prices for the present. Officers of the association are quoted, however, as saying that present prices cannot be maintained indefinitely unless there is a decrease in the price of wheat.

THE CITY MANAGER PLAN

ALTHOUGH no organized effort has been made to secure the adoption of the City Manager plan of government in Colorado Springs, there is a growing feeling that it would be an improvement on the present system. But it appears that the time between now and the spring election is too short to permit the preparations necessary to the launching of such a movement, so the question will go over for another two years.

The commission form of city government certainly has not been a failure in Colorado Springs; on the contrary, it has marked advantages over the old discredited system which it supplanted. We believe it has been the means of attaining greater efficiency in every department, and it undoubtedly has made possible much better methods of handling the city's finances.

Nevertheless, it has certain defects which cannot be remedied without a change in the system. One of the objects most earnestly sought by the framers of the charter was the centralization of authority in the hands of a few officials. In some degree they succeeded, but it is apparent that authority is still too widely distributed. And herein lies the advantage of the city manager plan. The experience of Dayton and Springfield, Ohio, particularly proves that one man chosen by appointment and solely on the basis of merit, can discharge the responsibilities of the entire executive branch of a municipal government much better than it can be done by a group of officials.

Under this system there is a council that passes the ordinances and employs the manager. But the entire work of administration in all its departments is exclusively in the hands of the manager. He alone is responsible, and if he fails to make good the people and the Council know where the blame belongs. He holds his position for a term of years under contract, which can be terminated for incompetency or other unfitness. He cannot be removed, nor is he employed for political reasons, and he may or may not be a resident of the city that employs him.

There are increasing evidences of the superiority of the city manager plan, and if they continue to multiply within the next year Colorado Springs can well afford to adopt the system at its next election.

JOY-RIDING OFFICIALS

IT IS in order to suggest that the Council hereafter refuse to pay damages caused by the joy-riding proclivities of some of our city officials who seemingly are afflicted with speed lunacy. It is an expensive practice, which within a few months has cost the City several hundred dollars. And it might become increasingly popular at the City Hall if the Council sticks to its precedent of paying the bills and saying nothing.

Several months ago Chief McCartin, en route to a fire, drove his car at furious speed into the side railing of a bridge. Result a badly damaged car and a strictly fancy repair bill. More recently this same impetuous official, "while slowing down to round a corner" (as the newspapers delicately explained), shot his car up on the curb, across a 20-foot sidewalk and through the plate-glass front of a restaurant. Again the City paid about $300 for repairs, but this time in addition it paid for new plate glass, restaurant fixtures, etc., instead of for bridge timbers. In both cases it paid to have an automobile transformed from a wreck into a new car.

* * * * *

And now comes Commissioner Johnson—the one who guards our "public safety"—returning from a trip to Denver last Sunday in one of the City's cars. According to the story in yesterday's Gazette he came with one of the rear fenders missing and [illegible] other indications of a hard trip," and a [illegible] about helping somebody out of a ditch.

Now it appears that Providence has been kind enough to these gentlemen to place them in positions where they can take Sunday joy rides in a big high-powered car at the expense of the City—yes, even given them the privilege of darting about the streets at forty miles an hour, going to and from their meals, without fear of arrest save by a collision with a bridge rail or a store building. Hence, it would seem to be a matter of common courtesy for them to volunteer to pay their own repair bills. The total cost to the public of Chief McCartin's two attacks of buck fever while at the steering wheel has been perhaps five or six hundred dollars. Commissioner Johnson's benevolence in "pulling somebody out of a hole" will cost still more. The next time it happens take it out of their pay checks, and a delighted populace will assemble in front of the City Hall and give three cheers for the Council.

THE STRUGGLE IN POLAND

DISPATCHES from Petrograd, and those from London which purport to give authentic information of affairs in the eastern war zone, tell stories of the development of that campaign which contradict one another each successive day. For several weeks there has been almost a deadlock, due probably to the severity of the weather. In the early months of the war the armies were alternately victorious, a Russian repulse of the German invasion being usually followed within a few days by a victory for General von Hindenburg's army.

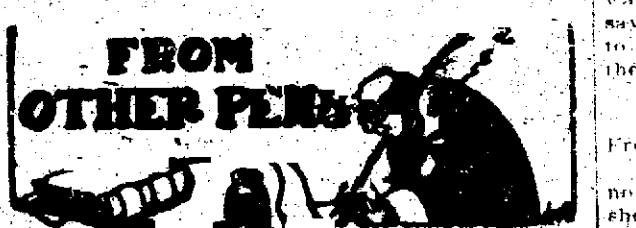

Indeed, the positions of the German and Russian forces have not changed in an important sense since the beginning of the war. Each has constantly occupied a portion of the other's territory, but the Germans have failed in their attempt to reach Warsaw, and the Grand Duke's army has been equally unsuccessful in its efforts to penetrate eastern Prussia and Silesia.

But in the campaign against Austria the Russians have been more successful. There are occasional reports of a minor Austrian success, but the Czar's army appears to be firmly intrenched throughout practically all of Galicia, and to have crossed the passes of the Carpathians and started an invasion of Hungary which has at least badly frightened Vienna and Budapest.

* * * * *

Recently General von Hindenberg was quoted by an interviewer as expressing high regard for the Russians as fighters. But he added that the efficiency of the army now opposing him could not be substantially increased, because the new recruits would be untrained men from Siberia. This statement is not altogether clear to the uninformed, for it happens that the dispatches have more frequently mentioned the Siberian troops for the excellence of their fighting qualities than any other part of the Russian army.

Moreover, there are still countless hordes of men in Russia who have served their time in the army and acquired their military training, and who are doubtless as available for military service as those now on the firing line. At any rate, it seems a little early to speculate on the possible exhaustion of Russia's military forces.

THE PRUSSIAN ORGY

From Life.

These extracts, from German proclamations, taken from the report of the Belgian commission of inquiry, make cheerful reading:

One of the proclamations issued in Liege on August 22 by General von Bulow reads as follows:

The inhabitants of the town of Ardenne, after having declared their peaceful intentions, have made a surprise attack on our troops. It is with my consent that the commander-in-chief has ordered the whole town to be burned and that about one hundred people have been shot.

I bring this fact to the knowledge of the city of Liege so that the citizens may realize the fate with which they are menaced if they adopt a similar attitude.

Another portion of the same proclamation says:

Each street will be occupied by a German guard, who will take 10 hostages in each street, whom they will keep in custody. If any outrage is committed in the street the 10 hostages will be shot.

The city of Brussels (exclusive of its suburbs) has been punished for the crime committed by its Policeman Ryckere against a German soldier by an additional fine of five million francs (about one million dollars).

And much more of the same colors always red. Germans seems surprised that the sympathies of the world are not with them.

HOW THE IDEA OF IMMORTALITY DEVELOPED

I know that my Avenger liveth
And that at the last he will appear above my grave;
And after my skin has been destroyed,
Without my body I shall see God;
Whom I shall see for myself
And my eyes shall behold, and not another.

From the Kansas City Star.

This great passage from the book of Job is notable not only for what it says, but also for the fact [illegible] It is now regarded as the first approach in Jewish literature to the idea of a blessed life after death. It was formerly assumed that Job was one of the earliest books of the Bible. Modern scholars, however, [illegible] believe that it was written about 400 years [illegible]

The author was endeavoring to combat the prevailing [illegible] or bad deeds in this earthly life [illegible] the [illegible] ple. Prosperity was the sign of God's favor and poverty of his wrath. The [illegible] ter lessons of experience that the wicked often prospered and that the righteous suffer. The solution his prophetic insight found [illegible] world. In the future of God would be the avenger of the righteous. Only so could the goodness of God be reconciled with the chaos of the world of sense.

[illegible] gradually in the consciousness of the great religious geniuses of Israel. [illegible] the abode of departed spirits [illegible] like the hades of the Greeks and Romans. It was the scene of a shadowy life to which good and bad alike were consigned. The dead, as the eighty-eighth Psalm says, are remembered no more by Jehovah. They are cut off from his hand, or jurisdiction.

But as the meaning of the fatherhood of God came to be more fully apprehended, the Hebrew writers felt the need of a future life in which wrongs could be righted. The belief shows itself in some of the later Psalms as well as in Job. In the fifty-third Psalm the writer asserts that the highest blessedness of the righteous is unbroken communion with God.

It was not, however, until the sacred writings of the Hebrews after the old testament that the idea of immortality was fully developed. "The great English authority on the two centuries preceding the Christian era, Canon R. H. Charles, has asserted that those two centuries, instead of being a period of silence, are 'the two most fruitful centuries in religious life and thought in the history of Israel.'" In the books of Enoch, the Testaments of the Twelve Patriarchs, Jubilees, the Book of Wisdom and others, is developed the doctrine of the future happiness of the righteous and misery of the wicked. Shortly after 100 B. C. sheol is described for the first time as the abode of fire.

The whole doctrine of the future life, as it is worked out in the new testament, is based on the religious teachings and insight of the writers of the Apocrypha and the Pseudepigrapha of the old testament. They, in turn, gained their inspiration by reflecting on the incompleteness of this earthly life and their inability to reconcile it with their idea of God. It was the same insight that, in modern times caused Browning's Abt Vogler to exclaim:

Therefore to whom turn I but to thee, the ineffable Name?
Builder and maker, thou, of houses not made with hands!
What, have fear of change from thee who art ever the same?
Doubt that thy power can fill the heart that thy power expands?
There shall never be one lost good! What was, shall live as before;
The evil is null, is nought, is silence implying sound;
What was good shall be good, with, for evil, so much good more;
On the earth the broken arcs; in the heaven, a perfect round.

MILITARY DRILL WOULDN'T HURT THEM

From the Chicago Tribune.

Alexander Revell, speaking at the annual dinner of the First regiment, I. N. G., urged that a plan be devised for giving every young man at least six months of military drill and training.

Well, such training in the proper sense of the word, which means out of doors under appropriate war conditions and not merely on a floor, wouldn't hurt any young man. If given at the right age and under proper direction it would teach him a lot of things he would need to know in case of war, which it would be useful for him to know in any case, and which would help to start him in life with a better stock of health than he would have without it.

Several thousand men lost their lives in our last war, that of 1898, not by the bullets of the enemy, but owing to their lack of knowledge how to take care of themselves when withdrawn from the usual routine of their daily lives in time of peace. A very large percentage of that loss, which was sheer waste because it contributed nothing to the success of the cause for which we were at war, would have been prevented by the military training for which Mr. Revell pleads.

Since the experience of Belgium shows that the most peaceful and unoffending nation cannot avoid war, we must expect that circumstances may some time arise that will compel us to fight. To prepare for such a contingency we need no great standing army, but we do need the "citizenry trained to arms" for which President Wilson asks. A very small percentage of our young men are so trained now, and the percentage is decreasing with the disappearance of frontier conditions. There's the fact to be faced. There's the condition to be changed.

GOVERNMENT SHIPPING

From Collier's.

Mr. Wilson says one of the chief advantages of government-owned ships is that they will stimulate the building and exploiting of privately owned shipping. It is difficult to conceive the kind of reasoning which arrives at this conclusion. Government competition is subsidized competition, and no privately owned and privately managed enterprise wants to suffer it. Mr. Wilson's claim is just like saying that the adoption of the parcel post ought to have caused more private corporations to go into the express business. It didn't not by a good deal.

SI FIGHING

Sleighing was a winter sport which flourished exceedingly 25 years ago, and threw a gentle glamour over winter, which cannot be imitated by modern devices.

Nothing mitigated the old-fashioned, sharp-toothed winter so much for the American young man of 1890 as the chance to tuck himself and a pretty girl into a snug little sleigh built for one and a half persons and to glide swiftly out into the white-mantled solitudes, driving with one hand and spreading a broad layer of bliss and sleighbell music through the land. Right after a heavy snow in the old-fashioned winter the sale of engagement rings increased one hundred per cent.

He becomes slightly soured on sleighing and begins to betray a feverish interest in nonskid tires.

Those happy days are past, however. The sleigh rests upside down in the haylolt under a thick deposit of dust, and the sweet chorus of jingling sleigh bells on a cold January evening has given way to the hectic and staccato oratory of the man who is trying to crank an automobile fast enough to heat it up to the starting point.

Two things have driven the sleigh to the barn loft—the automobile and the climate. It is not necessary to rise at 6 a. m. and thaw out a pump in order to feed an automobile, and the climate seems to have broken down and surrendered a good deal in the last quarter century. After the devoted adherent to the graceful and intoxicating sleigh has waited until February to use it and has then had to drive it home through four inches of unpoetical mud, he becomes slightly soured on sleighing and begins to betray a feverish interest in non-skid tires.

The automobile now hauls the young people of America through the land, while the industrious hen lays eggs in the straw-filled bottoms of the sleighs of our ancestors. The automobile is not as romantic as the sleigh, but it has one great advantage. The small boy cannot hitch a sled to the back of it and travel behind for ten miles, drinking eagerly in words intended for one set of ears alone.

WITH GLOVES AND WITHOUT

BY RUTH CAMERON

"It's easy enough to get along with a man," said the much married lady oracularly, "if you only learn to handle him with gloves."

The would-but-not-ready-to-be-married girl listened with a toss forward of her firm little chin.

"But suppose you don't like to wear gloves all the time?" said she. "Suppose you don't like the feeling of them?"

The much married lady looked her wonder at such heresy.

"It's the only way to get along with most men," she reiterated.

"But is it the right way?" asked the girl.

"Why, of course," said the much married lady. She is one of those people to whom what is, is always right.

Is it heresy to dislike being forced to wear figurative gloves all the time?

What Do We Mean by "Gloves?"

Of course that depends more or less on the meaning of "gloves."

IN THE EARLY DAYS

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 11, 1885.

The annual convention of the El Paso County Sunday School association here was brought to a close. Judge E. A. Colburn was elected president for the coming year.

El Paso county had reported taxes to the state treasurer as follows: collected, $13,553.72; remitted, $4,825.76; Hawk head bounties, $79; wolf scalp bounties, $87; skunk scalp bounties, 75 cents; lion scalp bounties, $20; loco weed bounties, $8,541.01.

Captain William Anderson, the proprietor of the newly opened coal mine north of town, had decided to bring his family from Denver and make his home here.

Sheriff Andrews of Douglas county came down after a horse thief who had been arrested here by Undersheriff Len Jackson.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 11, 1895.

The city council received a petition from residents of that vicinity asking that an arc light be installed at the corner of Rio Grande street and Nevado avenue.

It was very cold, the mercury hardly geting above zero all day. The extreme cold caused the trolley wire to snap on Tejon street near Monument, causing a delay of 45 minutes in the street car traffic.

MICHIGAN HEALTH MEASURE

Up to now communities have left the protection of public health, the prevention of disease, to men who were engaged in curing sick people during most of their day. The word "left" in the above sentence was selected as fitting the prevailing custom. The health office was an unwelcome baby, and the public dropped it on some doctor's doorstep, when nobody was looking. The doctor who had the foundling wished on him allowed it the scraps which fell from his mental table. The curing of disease got the good helpings.

One of the best efforts to mend this state of affairs is a proposal now before the Michigan legislature. This proposed law provides that the state shall be divided into a number of districts (less than 30). Each district is to have a whole-time health officer. This health officer is to give the duties of his office all of his attention. He is not allowed to practice medicine nor to have any other outside interests.

This provision is not especially new. It is the custom in Ontario and perhaps other portions of Canada. It is the law in both New York and Pennsylvania.

The method of selecting the health officers is novel and meritorious. Once a year the state board of health holds an examination in preventive medicine. The examination fee is $10. The examination is open to people outside as well as inside the state.

The names of those who pass are registered. The district health officers are to be chosen from the names on the list. No one else is eligible. The judges of the private court and the school commissioners of a given district meet on December 1 and select the district health commissioner.

The appointment is for four years, or during good behavior. The appointee can be removed by the governor, as is provided for all state officers by the laws of Michigan.

The district health commissioner is a deputy of the state board of health. The local health officers of his district are under his control.

[illegible] is made a separate district, and [illegible] health commissioner is to discharge the duties of a district commissioner.

Some of the provisions of the proposed law are open to criticism. For instance, is a board composed of probate judges and school commissioners liable to be the best judge of the qualities required in a health officer? This criticism relates to details. The law as a whole proposes a very definite forward step.

CAUSE OF PIMPLES.

C. L. W. writes: "What causes red pimples, which are hard under the skin, to break out continually on my face?"

REPLY.

It is due to fat and debris that accumulate in and around the sebaceous follicles of the skin. This fat and debris, being foreign bodies, irritate the skin and, when not removed, cause inflammatory lesions—"red pimples"—such as you complain of.

Having resorted to minor measures for relief, it would be well for you to have a careful doctor examine you and advise as to plan of treatment. He may give you the vaccine treatment. He may have you wash your face night and morning with lukewarm water and soap, rinse well, dry thoroughly, and then apply freely and rub briskly with equal parts of alcohol and a saturated solution of boracic acid. He will also direct you as to diet, exercises, baths, and habits of sleeping.

GRANGE NOT ORGANIZED

On account of the small attendance last night at the meeting of gardeners, farmers and dairymen to form a local branch of the National Grange of Patrons of Husbandry, the organization of the chapter was postponed. John Morris, state master of the grange, was a guest. He regretted that he could not help in the organization by reason of the few present. The organization meeting has been postponed until March, when there will be a farmers' institute at Fountain.

Safe Home Treatment for Objectionable Hairs

(Beauty Secrets)

The electric needle is not required for the removal of hairy growths, for with the use of plain delatone the most stubborn growth can be quickly banished. A paste is made with water and a little of the powder, then spread over the hairy surface. In about 2 minutes it is rubbed off and the skin washed. This simple treatment not only removes the hair, but leaves the skin free from blemish. Be sure you get genuine delatone. Adv.

Many Apply at Postoffice for Employment
Supply of Blanks Is Exhausted First Day

All day yesterday men and women seeking employment applied at the postoffice for application blanks to be filled out and sent to the headquarters of the free employment agency of the postoffice at Denver. It was estimated that about 50 people called during the day and the postmaster was compelled to telegraph for a fresh supply of application blanks from the immigration department in Denver.

The new movement was inaugurated here Tuesday by Postmaster O. W. Ward and the campaign to bring employer and employe together is well under way. Application blanks may be had on request from the postmaster.

A noticeable feature of the campaign is that there was not one employe who called and asked for blanks. This seems to be significant of the fact that there are many people looking for work and few who are in need of workers.

The class of men and women applying is of a high standard, according to Mr. Ward, who believes the new scheme will be successful.

"They were fine looking," he said, "and the field of opportunity is a large one. The officials at the headquarters, which is located in the Central Savings bank building, Denver, can pick the right men for the right jobs. "They have a wide territory to choose from. Their district covers four states, Colorado, Utah, Nebraska and Wyoming, and the movement seems to have taken hold everywhere."

In Denver more than 100 people applied for work at the postoffice during the first day, many of them being turned away when the supply of application blanks ran out.

Quite a number of people have a misleading impression of the movement and think the government is going to put the applicants at work on federal jobs. This is not the case, as the postoffice is merely operating with the immigration department in an effort to find work for men who are out of employment.

PUBLICITY CAMPAIGNERS TO START WORK AT ONCE

Every Resident of Region Urged to Write Friends to Come to Colorado This Year

About 32,000 people, the estimated population of Colorado Springs, are asked to write their friends in the east and south of the attractions and advantages of the Pikes Peak region. This is the plan the advertising committee of the Chamber of Commerce has suggested. The committee was appointed last week by Chairman J. W. Atkinson of the main publicity committee to help with the 1915 advertising campaign.

At a meeting of the committee yesterday plans for a city-wide campaign were outlined. Everyone is urged to write to eastern friends, a poster stamp will be designed for all the letters and a card to be slipped into each. The stamp and card will have an attractive design, probably a picture of Pikes Peak, or a similar view. H. H. Fawcett, J. W. Garrett and Bert Howard were appointed a subcommittee to investigate the card campaign, while G. H. Logan, D. Y. Butcher and E. B. Simmons were appointed a lodge committee. The duty of committeemen is to confer with the officials of the various lodges and organizations in the city. They will try to get the lodges to write to their different headquarters advising the members to stop here on the way to the conventions, which many of them will hold at San Francisco this summer. It was also recommended that a sticker be used which will contain a catch line to be placed on each letter.

The plans of the committees are ambitious and they hope to reach most of the people in Colorado Springs before they have finished the local campaign. It is urged that all persons take an interest in the campaign. literature of all kinds may be had at the Chamber of Commerce on request. Special folders and booklets are about to be published, containing information about the region, which are of the right size to slip into envelopes.

In writing to friends it is urged that special mention be made of the stopover privileges allowed by the railroads. All railroads entering Colorado allow stopovers at Colorado Springs, or else give a free side trip from the nearest stopping point.

City Approves Plan Proposing Auto Road to Summit of Peak

The city council yesterday adopted a resolution approving the terms of the proposed permit to Charles E. Noble to construct and maintain a toll automobile road from Cascade to the summit of Pikes Peak. The United States department of agriculture already has authorized the issuance of the permit, but the general understanding was that it would not be issued unless the city of Colorado Springs, which has been given the control of the national forest, is willing. The action of the city council yesterday practically assures the granting of the permit.

Under the terms of the permit, Noble must file with the forestry department a complete set of plans for the road, a financial statement showing ability to complete the work within a reasonable time, and must agree to file with the department vouchers of expense, etc. The permit, if granted, will give the government the right to regulate the tolls and to take over the road at any time upon the payment to the builders of a reasonable price.

Mr. Noble told the council yesterday that he was prepared to send a corps of surveyors into the field at once to lay out the route for the proposed road and to prepare estimates, that he might be able to furnish the department with the information requested at the earliest possible date.

Under the terms of the resolution passed by the council, the builders of the road must comply with whatever reasonable sanitary regulations the council may impose.

At the present time the watershed which is to be traversed by the road is not used by the city. If Colorado Springs, however, at any time should want to use any part of the road as a reservoir site the builders agree to remove the road at their own cost.

JOHNSON EXPLAINS AUTO TRIP TO DENVER SUNDAY

Went to Examine Fire Apparatus; Factory Expert Will Demonstrate Tractor to Be Shipped Here

Commissioner D. G. Johnson of the department of public safety explained to the city council yesterday the purpose of his trip to Denver last Sunday in the big Stutz roadster, purchased by the city for the use of the fire chief. The automobile was returned to fire headquarters late Sunday evening with one of the fenders missing and bore several scratches, marks and dents.

Commissioner Johnson explained to the council that he, in company with Al Rimmer of this city, went to Denver to see how the tractor at the fire department there is attached to the truck. On the return trip, he said, another motorist was helped out of a snowdrift. In that way, a fender was demolished and the fire chief's automobile otherwise damaged.

The city already has purchased a tractor for the aerial truck and the machine has been shipped from the east. Included in the contract between the city and the company selling the tractor is a clause which provides that a factory expert will install the machine, adapting it to the local truck. The factory expert, according to word received last week at fire headquarters, will be here at the time the tractor arrives, will attach it to the truck and will remain in the city for several days to make sure that the firemen thoroughly understand the manipulation of the machine. In this way, the city will be relieved of the responsibility of experimenting with the new equipment.

PURE FOOD ORDINANCE PASSED BY CITY COUNCIL

The city council yesterday passed the ordinance relating to bread, confectionery, ice cream and other foodstuffs, providing that the weight in ounces of bread shall be placed on each loaf and providing certain sanitary standards to govern bakeries, groceries, hotels, restaurants, markets, ice cream factories, creameries, etc.

The new measure provides a fine of not less than $5 nor more than $20 for each violation, and is modeled closely after the state and federal pure food laws.

FLOOD WATERS COST CITY $14,990 IN 1914

Street Department Report Shows $74,442 Expended During Year

The annual report for 1914 of Street Supervisor B. A. Briggs, filed with the city council yesterday by Commissioner A. J. Lawton of the department of public works, shows that last year's floods cost the street department a total of $14,990.94. During the year the department graded 102 street blocks, graveled 103 street blocks and 16 alley blocks and oiled 30 street blocks.

Included in the year's work was the building of a new conduit over Shooks run on East Pikes Peak avenue, the installation of a drainage conduit on Mesa road for the protection of Monument Valley park, the building of a new retaining wall at the Huerfano viaduct, and the opening up of Corona street at the Santa Fe tracks at Columbia street. The railroad companies were induced to build new undercrossings on South Nevada avenue.

For street sprinkling purposes a total of 28,140,880 gallons of water was used. The amount used by the street car company's sprinklers was 22,389,000 gallons. The cost of the water distributed by the city sprinklers was about $2.42 per 21,993 gallons.

In the sweeping district a total of 1,916 loads of dirt and rubbish was removed. In cleaning ditches the department removed 4,268 loads of dirt.

During the year the department hauled away 1,093 loads of ice and snow.

In resurfacing streets 7,653 cubic yards of gravel were distributed over 103 street blocks and 16 alley blocks at a labor cost of approximately 55 cents per cubic yard.

Repairs to the street paving in the business district required a total of 31 days by men and one day by a city team, the labor cost being $70.25. A total of $107.75 was expended for labor in cutting weeds.

During the construction of the South Nevada avenue undercrossing by the railroad companies, the department moved a total of 4,073 loads of soil.

Bills for horse maintenance, exclusive of shoeing, totaled $4,331.82, or an average of $15.04 per head per month. Shoeing cost $1.84 per head per month. Auto maintenance cost $910.54.

The total amount expended by the department was $74,442.19, of which $38,042.09 went for the pay roll.

WINTER NIGHT CLUB TO HOLD PATRIOTIC MEETING

Public Invited to Hear Lecture at Burns Tomorrow Night by Hon. John F. Phillips

That the action of the Winter Night club in holding patriotic meetings on Lincoln's birthday tomorrow is much appreciated by the public generally is shown by the many requests for tickets received at the Burns theater yesterday afternoon.

Today is the last opportunity members of the club will have of obtaining seats before the general distribution of tickets to the public.

Tomorrow afternoon anyone may obtain tickets by applying at the theater between the hours of 2 and 5:30 o'clock and in the evening before the address. A section of the house has been reserved for members of the G. A. R., and it is hoped that members of other organizations, as well as the public generally, will feel free to hear Judge John F. Phillips' address, which will be along patriotic lines and in commemoration of the day.

Renewed Activity on Stock Exchange

Trading in Portland stock was a feature on the mining exchange yesterday, 4,500 shares changing hands at $1.15, the highest figure attained in some time. In respect to the amount of cash involved, yesterday was the busiest for several months on the exchange and the majority of stocks held their strength.

The annual meeting of the Portland company will be held next Monday in Cheyenne. The trading in that stock does not usually exceed 500 or 1,000 shares, and the unusual activity yesterday is said to be in anticipation of the report, which will be made public at the meeting.

Several thousand shares of Elkton changed hands at 51 cents, and 4,000 shares of Isabella were dealt in at 17½ and 18 cents. Vindicator has been strong this week and 13,000 shares sold yesterday at 19. Jack Pot was unusually active, yesterday, 11,000 shares changing hands at 6 cents. Considerable trading was done in several of the cheaper stocks.

New York city has advertised nationally for a director of its committee on social welfare, the salary to be $5,000 a year.

WHAT THE PRESS AGENTS SAY

"RUNAWAY JUNE"

The third episode of "Runaway June" will be the feature of the Empress today, entitled "Discharged." George Randolph Chester, author of "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" and many other stories for The Saturday Evening Post, and numerous other magazines, who is perhaps as popular as any other American writer of fiction, has entered the film field. He has just completed a great photoplay serial of love, mystery and adventure, called "Runaway June." "Runaway June" is strong in deep mystery, in thrills and [illegible] to hold the attention [illegible] added attraction, it has [illegible] command the attention [illegible] every mar[illegible] single man [illegible]

of that world-old enigma, the money question between husband and wife. It is the man who gives and the woman who receives, and this condition has been the source of perplexity in marital happiness through all the ages of the world.

"The Double Deception," a charming comedy of love in a cottage, is also on the bill. It's a single-reel Majestic, and is both amusing and instructive. The story is told of a wealthy society girl who goes to the country to avoid the shams of society, and of a blase young clubman who does the same. They meet, fall in love and marry. Each thinks the other poor; hence, the deception. A dandy offering.

"Which Would You Rather Be?" A cracker-jack comedy-drama, with a cast of popular stars o filmdom. It's a Beauty film and one of the prettiest and best ever. Don't fail to see today's bill at the Empress.

"THE WINNING OF BARBARA WORTH"

No stage offering of the present season excells in importance the production of "The Winning of Barbara Worth," which comes to the Opera house for two nights and a matinee, February 19-20. The scenic mounting of this play will leave nothing to be desired and the company has been assembled with great care. Aside from the theatrical importance of this production, an added interest is due to its being a stage version of one of the most widely read American novels of the decade by the famous author, Harold Bell Wright.

"STOP THIEF"

George Kleine's latest feature film, "Stop Thief," which will be shown at the Opera house Monday and Tuesday, is founded on the Cohan & Harris stage play, by Carlyle Moore. More than 500 American cities have seen "Stop Thief" in its stage form and will welcome the filmed version, which reports say is even funnier than its original.

To insure the best results, George Kleine used the stage cast in making the picture. Mary Ryan who created the role of the light-fingered maid, is seen in the lead, with Harry Mestayer opposite, in his familiar part of her sweetheart, Jack Doogan.

"Stop Thief" was one of the greatest laugh-producing properties on the American stage, and the film version, with its greater latitude of setting and action, will undoubtedly prove one of the most popular film comedies.

A continuous performance, commencing at 2 p. m., will be given.

ORCHESTRA MAY SUPPLANT MIDLAND BAND THIS YEAR

Chamber of Commerce Committee Discusses Question of Summer Concerts, but Takes No Action

A series of orchestra concerts may be inaugurated this summer to take the place of the Midland band concerts if the amount necessary to engage the latter organization is not raised soon. The question was discussed yesterday at a meeting of the tourist-travel committee, which is investigating the matter, but no action was taken.

A joint meeting of Colorado Springs and Manitou delegates will be arranged within the next few days, and it is probable that a conclusion can be reached at that time. A possible solution of the problem is that Colorado Springs and Manitou may appropriate more than the usual amount of money to support the band concerts.

ANNEXATION ORDINANCE PASSES FIRST READING

The ordinance placing the question of the annexation of Colorado City to Colorado Springs before the voters of Colorado Springs at the city election in April was passed on first reading by the city council yesterday morning and ordered published. The ordinance to place the question before the voters of Colorado City is now in the hands of the Colorado City council.

The measure is the result of the work of a committee appointed several months ago to investigate the matter of annexation. Under the provisions of the proposed annexation, all indebtedness is to be assumed by Colorado Springs, the Colorado Springs council being in power over the entire territory. It also provides that all property of every kind owned by Colorado City will become a part of Colorado Springs and all indebtedness of both cities is to be paid by tax levied upon all territory within the boundaries of Colorado Springs as its exists after the proposed annexation.

That part of Colorado Springs after such annexation now comprising Colorado City is to be furnished equal police, health, sanitation, fire protection and water supply as the territory within the present boundaries of Colorado Springs. The streets, alleys, parks, sewers and all other city property used and maintained by Colorado Springs after such annexation shall be, while so used and maintained, kept in as good condition as like property within the present boundaries of Colorado Springs.

The Colorado City free public library is to be maintained in its present location or in a suitable location within what is now the territory of Colorado City. The Colorado City cemetery also will be maintained in its present location. All licenses issued by Colorado City and in full force and effect at the time of the taking effect of the proposed annexation will be considered as issued by Colorado Springs and will continue in force until expiration or until the same are revoked or suspended in the same manner as such licenses issued by the city of Colorado Springs.

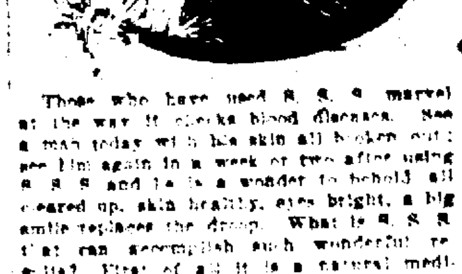

Upon the taking effect of the proposed annexation measure, the terms and salaries of all officers and employes of Colorado City will terminate. Residents in Colorado City before the annexation will be deemed residents of Colorado Springs for the purpose of qualifying any person seeking election or appointment to any office or position in Colorado Springs after the annexation.

AMENDMENT TO POLICE PENSION ORDINANCE IS VOTED DOWN BY COUNCIL

At its meeting yesterday morning the city council voted down a proposed amendment to the ordinance now in effect relating to the police department and pension fund, which was passed January 8, 1913. Later, when it was voted to consider the amendment in committee of the whole, the same decision was reached, it is understood, most of the commissioners opposing the new measure.

The amendment, which is given below, promises to give additional benefits to members of the police department in case of injury, or pensions to members of their family in event of death, and to also provide an appropriation of a sum not to exceed $100 to the widow or family of a deceased member of the department. The proposed amendment is as follows:

Section 1. That Section 12 of said ordinance be amended to read as follows:

Section 12. SICK BENEFITS. Any member of the police department who is unable to perform the duties of his employment in said department on account of sickness, and who is laid off on half pay on account of such sickness, shall receive one dollar per day from the relief fund above provided for such time only as he is laid off and received half pay from the city. In case, however, his sickness continues more than 90 days, he shall for such period in excess of 90 days be paid monthly from said funds an amount equal to one-half his average monthly salary, so long as the existence of such sickness may from time to time be attested to in writing by two regularly certified and practicing physicians appointed by the board for such purpose.

Section 2. That Section 16 of said ordinance be amended to read as follows:

Section 16. BENEFITS TO BENEFICIARIES IN CASE OF DEATH. (a) If any member of the police department shall, while in the performance of his duty, be killed or die as a result of an injury received in the line of his duty, or of any disease contracted by reason of his occupation as a policeman, or shall die from any cause whatever, while in such service, and shall leave a widow, or child or children under the age of 16 years, surviving him, the board shall direct the monthly payment from said relief and pension fund to the widow until married, and to each child until it shall attain the age of 16 years, of a sum in accordance with the following schedule, but if the aggregate thereof in any case exceed one-half the average monthly salary received by such deceased member, during the year next before his death, then the payments in such case shall be proportionately abated. The schedule above referred to is as follows: To the widow until she marries, $30; to each child under the age of 16 years, $6, payable to the custodian thereof.

(b) If any member of the police department, being single, or unmarried, shall, while in the performance of his duty, be killed or die as the result of any injury received, or of any disease contracted by reason of his occupation as a policeman, or shall die from any cause whatever while in said service, and shall leave a father or mother who are dependent upon him for support, or a sister or brother under the age of 16 years so dependent, the policemen's relief fund board shall direct the payment from the relief fund monthly to the father, if he only or both such parents are living, or to the mother if she only is living, the sum of $30. The board shall also direct the payment monthly to the legal custodian for the benefit of each minor brother or sister while under 16 years of age, the sum of $6, provided, however, if the aggregate thereof in any case exceed one-half the average monthly salary received by such deceased member during the year next before his death, then the payments in such case shall be proportionately abated.

Section 3. That Section 25 is hereby incorporated in said ordinance to read as follows:

Section 25. INJURY BENEFITS. Any member of the police department who is unable to perform the duties of his employment in said department on account of injuries received in the service shall be paid his salary by the department. In case, however, his injuries continue more than 90 days, he shall, for such period in excess of 90 days be paid monthly from said fund an amount equal to one-half his average monthly salary, so long as the existence of such injury may from time to time be attested to in writing by two regularly practicing physicians appointed by the board for such purpose.

Section 4. That Section 26 is hereby incorporated in said ordinance to read as follows:

Section 26. FUNERAL EXPENSES. Upon the death of a member of this department the board shall appropriate a sum not to exceed $100 to the widow or family of such deceased member for funeral expenses.

Section 5. This ordinance shall be in force and effect from and after 10 days after its passage and publication as required by the charter.

WITH THE FRENCH WOUNDED

The Woman's Sacrifice

Paris, Feb. 10, 8:30 P. M. Away from the battlefield one sees war stripped of its glamor. We see the heroic work of nurses who are on duty day and night. There is devotion, self-sacrifice, suffering, patriotism—qualities which only a great war and its terrible consequences can inspire to the highest development. The women everywhere are helping and everywhere one sees self-sacrifice and devotion to country.

The women of the United States do not know how fortunate they are. Here there are plenty of women who suffer in silence, whose strength is out of proportion to their ambition. Their hands are tied by some chronic disease common to womankind, that weak back, accompanied by pain here or there, extreme nervousness, sleeplessness, maybe fainting spells or spasms, are all signals of distress for women. She may be growing from girlhood into womanhood, passing from womanhood to motherhood, or later suffering from that change which leaves so many wrecks of women. At any or all of these periods of a woman's life she should take a tonic and nervine prescribed for just such cases by a physician of vast experience in the diseases of women. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has successfully treated more cases the past fifty years than any other known remedy. When you feel dull, headachy, dizzy, or perhaps hot flashes, there is nothing you can accomplish, nothing you can enjoy. You can find permanent relief in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is sold by medicine dealers [illegible] Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. [illegible] of 50 cents or one dollar for large box. Adv.

Germans Germanizing Little French Towns

BERLIN, Feb. 10.—In occupied districts of France and Belgium, which the Associated Press correspondent has just visited, the Germans are plainly preparing for a long occupation, should it be necessary. Everywhere one sees instances of their national thoroughness everywhere repairs have been carried out solidly and methodically. Even enameled street signs occasionally appear where the name of a street has been changed. The "gare" has become a "Bahnhof," permanent signs limiting the speed or course of automobiles have been set up, and the visitor from the Fatherland feels himself quite at home in the once French public buildings at beholding the old familiar placards, "Do not spit on the floor," or "Throw refuse in this basket."

Mingling with the uniforms of the soldiers are the soberer uniforms of the German postal and railway authorities. The struggles of their wearers to understand and make themselves understood with the French inhabitants form a humorous side of war. Some of them have acquired a few words of French and some of the inhabitants have reciprocated by learning a few German words. These, with the help of an assortment of fearful and wonderful gestures, generally succeed in clearing up the situation. When all means fail, appeal is made to some bystander.

In two weeks in the occupied district, the correspondent did not observe a single case of incivility on the part of German soldiers or government officials toward the French inhabitants. On the contrary, the Germans invariably displayed great patience and civility.

Three New Marshals Named in Jap Army

TOKIO, Feb. 10.—Three new marshals have been appointed in the Japanese army. To this, the highest rank, have been promoted his imperial highness, General Prince Fushimi, war councilor; General Viscount Kawamura, war councilor, and General Viscount Hasegawa, chief of the general staff. The promotions are very popular. Newspapers are filled with sketches and anecdotes of the new chiefs.

One especially interesting episode is recounted of Prince Fushimi, who commanded the first division of the Japanese army during the Russian war. It occurred just before the Japanese forces stormed Nanshan, some 20 miles from Port Arthur. His highness went close to the first line of battle to watch the progress of the engagement. Sometimes he would stand in a prominent position, exposed to the enemy's fire, quite unmoved by the occasional bursting of shells perilously close to him.

An anxious chief of staff advised the prince to retire to a place of greater safety, saying that should anything untoward happen to his person it would affect the morale of the whole army.

"But," replied the prince, "that wouldn't my retreat affect the morale of the army still more?"

His highness remained in his position till the very end of the day's engagement.

FEEL BLUE OR JUST STUPID?

Sluggish bowels and torpid liver usually go together, and it does not take long for constipation to produce a bad condition—a feeling of languor or laziness—the "blues," headaches, palpitation or other malady. Indeed, when in this condition the system invites more serious illness and is not able to throw off disease. Foley Cathartic Tablets are a wholesome laxative and cleansing cathartic. They act without inconvenience, griping or sickening. Robinson Drug Co. Adv.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The 1,500 mines reported to have drifted on the shores of Holland from their anchorage in the North sea have been reduced by official figures to 84, according to reports to the state department. Nine are reported as being French, two Dutch and the remainder British.

All are understood to have been of the fixed type, that is to say they were anchored. The Hague convention requires that they shall be securely fastened.

French Revenue Has Decreased $38,400,000

PARIS, Feb. 10.—Fiscal statistics for the year 1914 just compiled show that diminution of foreign commerce and decrease in returns from internal taxes has caused a loss of revenue to France aggregating [illegible] francs or about $38,400,000.

The ratio of decrease was greatest in September, which showed [illegible] francs deficit; since then the ratio has steadily decreased by reason of an improvement in foreign trade, the difference in receipts for December being [illegible] francs.

The decrease in the consumption of taxed beverages during the last five months of the year accounts for [illegible] francs of the deficit. The consumption of tobacco is also shown to have diminished greatly from the beginning of the war.

A heavy cold in the lungs that was expected to cure itself has been the starting point in many cases of disease that ended fatally. The sensible course is to take frequent doses of BALLARD'S HOREHOUND SYRUP. It checks the progress of the disorder and assists nature to restore normal conditions. Heat Rations With Solidified Alcohol

PARIS, Feb. 10.—The commissary department of the army has lately distributed to men engaged in the advanced trenches solidified alcohol which is easily lighted by a match, and, burning without a visible flame, gives out sufficient heat to warm up rations.

From the chemist's standpoint solidified alcohol is still inexistent, all efforts to arrive at this result at ordinary temperatures having failed. The availability of a so-called solidified alcohol is due to the genius of the smuggler. About 10 years ago a man conceived the idea of crushing crystal white soap [illegible] and mixing with it its weight in alcohol. In this form the alcohol passed the customs inspection as soap and a subsequent simple process of distillation restored the alcohol to its natural state.

This was the process taken up by the army to furnish soldiers in the trenches a convenient, inconspicuous means of heating their food.

Rain and War Destroy Fine French Highways

PARIS, Feb. 10.—Rain and war together have completed the destruction of the admirable high roads in the north of which France was once proud. The continual passage of heavy artillery and of the thundering motor trucks have worn deep ruts into them, now filled with mud that sticks like glue. Within range of the semifixed battle line, the ruts are nothing compared to the multitude of funnel-shaped holes where the big German shells have ripped out the macadam and broken something three feet deep into the roadway. [illegible] is now certain suicide on these routes and the work of [illegible] has suffered accordingly. It requires three motor trucks now to do the work accomplished by two a month ago. The rapid progress in the French motor equipment has made it possible to surmount the difficulty at the expense of an enormous wear and tear.

Germans Sense of Humor Cost Them Plan of Line

PARIS, Feb. 10.—An artist of L'Illustration, serving in the trenches in the Argonne, tells how the Germans were lured into allowing him to obtain a valuable photograph of their positions in trenches 15 yards distant from the French. The French commander desired a sketch or photograph which would disclose the German position. It was dangerous even to peep over the French trenches, with the Germans so close. If they were Saxons, a French lieutenant averred, they were good-humored fellows and might not trouble them, but if they were Prussians, he said they would probably respond with hand grenades.

He prepared to find out by breaking the silence with a snatch of German song.

"[illegible]," [illegible].

There was silence a moment, then a voice in the German trenches replied: "[illegible], sie ist's so wunderschön. Da [illegible]."

Two German heads rose above the [illegible] and shouted:

The moment appeared propitious, and the French artist raised the camera above the trench.

The camera was set upon its tripod, and the picture taken. The artist slipped back into his trench while the Germans cried, "Danke schön!"

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Reckoning each man as a wealth-producing force equal to a mere $2,500 in capital, the economic waste of human life in the present European war on the basis of 1,000,000 dead and permanently incapacitated has already cost Europe $2,000,000,000, according to F. TOPEKA MAY KEEP CLUB; RESULT IS STILL IN DOUBT

Chances of Western League Club for Springs Begin to Look Small

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—Topeka probably will retain its place in the Western league, but the club owners will not sanction the transfer of the franchise to George A. Benson until a guarantee of $6,000 as evidence of good faith has been placed in the hands of President O'Neil.

This was given out this afternoon at the conclusion of a session of the magnates, who heard from Topeka that the old club directors and the bank which held a mortgage on the club's property had agreed to let Benson run the team. Benson, according to O'Neil, is cashier in the bank which held the mortgage.

Attorney Sloan of Kansas City, who represented the bank at today's session here, informed the club owners that he expected the guarantee required would be here tomorrow.

The magnates expect to resume their schedule making tomorrow. They have been waiting to be assured regarding the makeup of the league before deciding on a chart.

TY PANS FEDS FOR TRICKY DOINGS IN GRABBING PLAYERS

Cobb in Role of Author Apt to Misstate; Marquard Wasn't Lured

By FRANK G. MENKE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Ty Cobb has taken it upon himself to "pan" the Federal league—the very same organization that enabled Ty to get a boost in salary from a reported $9,000 a year to his present reported salary of $15,000 a year.

Ty, who has been drawing down soft money this winter for permitting the use of his name to articles that undoubtedly are written by someone else, permits it to be said under his signature that "the Feds are using trickery, bribery and other things to lure ball players from their [illegible] roosts in organized baseball."

Ty—or the man who writes for Ty—slips a cable when he tries to "pan" the Feds because of the "Rube" Marquard case. The writer of the article evidently punched out his stuff without having a full knowledge, or any real knowledge, at all concerning the Marquard affair.

The article states: "Rube Marquard of the Giants was induced to attempt to violate an iron-clad instrument binding him to the Giants for two years."

Marquard was not induced. The Brooklyn Federals didn't seek Marquard. Marquard sought them.

Here are the real facts in the Marquard case for Ty's benefit in future articles:

John B. Foster told us the first part of the story, to-wit:

"Marquard went to McGraw in the fall and wanted some advance money. He didn't get it. Guess that made him sore and he went over to see the Wards."

From this point on we'll let Ev. Brewer, eastern representative for the Federal league, tell the story:

"Marquard hunted up Robert B. Ward, owner of the Brooklyn Federals, and said he would like to sign up on a sliding scale of salary, that is, he wanted a certain salary if he won a certain number of games and a scale of bonuses for games won over that number. Marquard made that proposition voluntarily. He probably figured that his showing with the Giants in 1914 was poor, and that Ward might not want him.

"Ward asked Marquard if he wasn't under contract with the Giants for 1915. Marquard answered:

"'No, my contract expired this fall. I can't come to terms with the Giants for 1915 and I would like to sign up with you.'

"Ward then told Marquard to go out, think it over for a few days, and if he still wanted to sign to bring in an affidavit to the effect that he was not legally under contract to the Giants.

"Marquard came back a few days later, produced the affidavit, asked for $1,500 advance money, got it and then signed a contract with the Brooklyn Federals."

And now we ask our author-ball player, in the face of these facts, do you still think Marquard was induced?

Cobb ought to be the last person to heave rocks at the Feds. They did more for him than anyone else ever did or ever will do. They got a $6,000 boost in salary for him.

When the Feds learned early in 1914 that Ty's contract with the Detroit Tigers had expired they made him a big offer. Ty, according to all reports at the time, gave that offer serious consideration. The Detroit owners heard about it and awoke to the fact that it was in danger of losing the greatest drawing card in organized baseball. The Detroit club at once met the Federal league offer and Ty remained "faithful."

Cobb is a wonderful ball player and it is a [illegible] shot that if it hadn't been for the Feds the Detroit owners never would have given Cobb that big boost in salary, even though he is worth $15,000 a year more.

If the Federal league had not acted as a club for Ty to use in 1914—if there had been no Federal league at all—do you think that the Detroit management voluntarily would have boosted Ty's pay from $9,000 a year to the reported $15,000?

If the Feds hadn't given Ty that bludgeon the Tiger owners would have done to Ty what organized moguls always did to ball players before the Feds came, [illegible] offer him any old salary they chose to give him, putting it up to him to accept it or get out of baseball altogether.

WOMAN TAKES PART IN DISCUSSION AT NATIONAL'S SESSION

Playing Schedule Adopted; Mrs. Britton Enters the Debate

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Having adopted the playing schedule for the coming baseball season, shortly after convening today, the National league club owners wound up the business of their annual schedule meeting tonight, after a long discussion on the new waiver rule. In the future when a club asks for waivers on a player, there cannot be a withdrawal, nor can a club withdraw a claim for a player under a waiver. This was made a hard and fast rule today by a 6-to-2 vote, New York and Pittsburg being the dissenting clubs. It was also decided that no manager can ask for waivers or claim a player. Such action in future must be taken personally by a club president.

During the discussion on these points Mrs. Schuyler R. Britton, part owner of the St. Louis club, addressed the delegates, the first time that a woman has taken part in the debates of the baseball magnates. Mrs. Britton was warmly congratulated upon her familiarity with the waiver and draft clauses.

The league did not announce what action, if any, was taken in regard to the request of the International league to place a club in the Bronx borough of that city, but President Tener said that a written reply would be mailed to President Barrow of the minor organization tomorrow.

Managers Herzog and Moran of Philadelphia have not yet completed the deal for Catcher Dooin, who has been signed by Cincinnati. The Philadelphia club was to receive a player in addition to a substantial cash consideration for the catcher, and it is understood that the player will be the third baseman, Niehoff. Manager Bresnahan of the Chicago club, who is said to be anxious to secure the services of Niehoff, had a conference with the other two managers, but no agreement was reached.

Miller Huggins, the St. Louis club's manager, and Herzog, also had several talks today in reference to the closing of the deal by which Catcher Wingo goes to Cincinnati. The transfer of another player is to be included in this transaction, but the selection of the man was not agreed upon tonight.

The local American league club announced today that Angel Aragon, who played last season with the Long Branch, N. J., club of the Atlantic league and finished the season with the Yankees, had signed a contract with the latter club.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—After adjournment of the National league magnates, discussion among baseball men centered upon the question whether the International league was to be granted permission to put a team in Bronx borough.

President Barrow of the International league has made no attempt to conceal his chagrin over the manner in which his plan is being received, and has hinted that there might be more trouble in baseball ranks if his request is turned down.

President Tener of the National league said no action was taken on Barrow's request at the present time for "obvious reasons." He said Barrow's request would be answered by mail.

The "obvious reasons" mentioned by Tener were not known until Barney Dreyfuss of the Pittsburg club said: "We do not want to take any action on anything until Judge Landis makes his decision."

Judge Landis' decision in the Federal league suit also is awaited before action is taken on the request of the Class AA leagues for elimination of the draft, it was apparent from the talk of the baseball men.

President Hempstead of the Giants said: "I am still opposed to the International league going into the Bronx. I consider this matter as an important one to our business, and I do not care to reconsider my decision."

"If they do not want to grant us a club in the Bronx, I wish they would tell us their reasons," said William Gibson, who is after the Bronx International franchise. "They say we will not interfere with their business, so why not let us take the consequences if we should fail. I will tell you this, organized baseball or no organized baseball, we intend to have a team in the Bronx next season."

It was admitted by Federal league officials here today that Harry F. Sinclair, an oil man from Tulsa, Okla., is the man behind the Federal league team which will be placed in the metropolitan district, either in Newark or the Bronx. There was a rumor that the Federal league might decide to place clubs in both Newark and the Bronx.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—Charles A. Comiskey, president of the Chicago American league ball club, and B. B. They will spend a day in Seattle, Wash., and Portland, Ore., before going to San Francisco.

The players will leave the first of next week.

May Have 20-Round Bouts in New York

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 10.—An attempt will be made in the present session of the legislature to amend the Frawley boxing law so as to permit the holding of 20-round decision bouts in this state, according to Chairman McElroy, who said he intends to introduce a bill to that effect tomorrow. The present law permits 10-round no-decision bouts. The no-decision feature was included in the belief that it would discourage betting. Fifteen years ago under the Horton law 20-round decision bouts were allowed in this state and many championships changed hands in bouts held under its provision.

Haymaking Period for Golfers Is About 34

Harold H. Hilton in the British golfing magazine of which he is the editor has ventured to give an opinion as to the age at which a golfer should reach the height of his game. After reviewing the careers of such golfers as Vardon, Braid and Taylor among the professionals and John Ball among the amateurs the former British champion says first that the period between 27 and 37 should be considered the golfer's prime. Then he becomes more definite and sets 34 as the exact age.

After giving this opinion Hilton evidently began to think about the age of the greatest golfers in America, Travers, who won two national titles before he was 20, Ouimet, a champion at 20, and many others, for after pinning his faith to 34 as the height of a golfer's career he closes his discussion with the following statement about American golf:

"On this principle the outlook of American golf would appear to be particularly rosy, as all their leading players are well on the near side of 30, and the one who has been most successful of all during very recent times has not yet arrived at man's estate, and this early development of American golfing youth is quite remarkable, at least from a British point of view, as we are accustomed to look upon a golfer of 30 years of age as a comparative baby; but there was a time when we considered this stamp of golfer as a seasoned player. It is the continued success of the older school which has served to alter our sense of proportion."

INFIELDER DULEY IS RELEASED TO PHILLIES

NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Apart from constant pressure against the coal shares which at one time substantial losses on rumors of an impending decision by the Interstate commerce commission, today's market was strong and replete with interesting developments. Chief among these were the reimportation of $2,500,000 American gold from Ottawa, where it had been deposited by our bankers in the early weeks of the European war. The importance of this transaction, as seen by local financial interests, lies in the fact that it is the first indication of a return of the precious metal to this center since the beginning of the foreign crisis. More imports of gold from the same source are said to be under negotiation.

Other encouraging factors were the large increase in January tonnage reported by the United States Steel corporation, advances in finished steel and iron, and new railway financing and equipment purchases. Approval of the new $100,000,000 bond issue by the New York Central directors on terms more advantageous to the company than were originally outlined, was reflected in the partial recovery of the stock.

A considerable part of today's gains was in the specialties. Bethlehem Steel and some of the automobile shares ascending to higher prices. Pittsburg Coal preferred gained 7 points on rumors that it had been decided to restore the dividend. Department store securities also figured in the movement among obscure issues.

Foreign exchange fell to yesterday's low rate for cables on London, but recovered later on buying of bills, that movement being facilitated by the approaching holiday. Local money rates hardened slightly for a similar reason. London markets were steady except for the American division, where a weaker tone prevailed. The Imperial Bank of Germany added almost $8,000,000 to its gold holdings.

Bonds were lower with heavy declines in low-priced issues.

There were numerous sales for future delivery, presumably on foreign account. Total sales, par value, aggregated $1,660,000.

United States registered 2's advanced ½ per cent on call.

REDISCOUNT RATES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Approval of the federal reserve board was announced tonight for the following rediscount rates:

Boston, 4 per cent, maturities 30 to 60 days; 4½ per cent, 60 to 90 days. New York, 4 per cent, 30 days; 4½ per cent, 30 days; 5 per cent, 30 to 60 days; 5½ per cent, over 60 days. Dallas, 4 per cent, [illegible] per cent, 60 to 90 days, and over 90 days, 5 per cent.

CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—Bears had the advantage in wheat today largely because of demands voiced in Berlin that the war be stopped. Closing prices were steady at ⅝ to ⅞c under last night. Corn finished ⅝@¾ to ⅝ off, oats down ⅝@⅞ to ¾c and provisions varying from 2½c decline to a rise of 12½c.

Suggestions that peace moves might develop with unlooked for swiftness carried just enough weight to discourage wheat buyers from becoming at all aggressive, and to induce a good deal of scattered selling. Sentiment against the bulls was increased by the fact that quotations at Liverpool had somewhat eased off and that exporters on this side of the Atlantic gave evidence of a desire for at least a temporary breathing spell.

Rapid decrease of interior stocks led to something of a recovery in the wheat market as the day wore on. The falling off in the supply at Minneapolis during the last four days was announced as 750,000 bushels and in Kansas City for two days as 524,000 bushels.

Corn weakened as a result of the slowness of domestic and export demand. European bids at the seaboard were said to be two cents out of line. Call for oats was not as enthusiastic as on the preceding day. Country offerings, notably in Iowa were said to be large.

Provisions sagged early on account of big receipts of hogs. The market, however, advanced later in consequence of covering by shorts.

BANK DEPOSITS INCREASE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Loans and discounts on the books of national banks of the country at the close of business December 31, 1914, amounted to $6,347,636,510, an increase over October 31 of more than $31,000,000, according to a statement tonight by Controller of the Currency Williams. Demand and time deposits December 31 amounted to $6,346,362,250, an increase over the amount at the time of the last controller's call of about $167,000,000.

The call of December 31 was the first since the federal reserve system began actual operations and in consequence the banks showed a decrease in specie compared with October 31 of $218,395,651 and of legal tender of $43,929,637. It was pointed out, however, that the deposit of lawful reserve by national banks with reserve banks before the call and after October 31 amounted to $261,459,775 and that in addition banks subscribed $18,051,000 to the capital of the reserve banks, showing in fact an increase of cash in the national banks and the federal reserve banks of about $17,000,000.

The excess reserve of all the banks is computed to be $559,913,961, compared with an excess of $136,469,450 on October 31, and an increase since the inauguration of the federal reserve system of $423,444,511.

New England states reported an excess reserve of $45,559,729; the eastern states $195,468,298 including $79,136,921 in New York city; Southern states $63,012,248; middle western states $132,553,480; western states $64,663,296; Pacific states $58,279,000 and Hawaii $1,377,910.

Commissioner Botts to Be Candidate for Reelection

All candidates at the regular city election Tuesday, April 6, must be nominated by petition each of which must be signed by 25 qualified voters. Petitions must be filed with the city clerk not more than 30 nor less than 20 days before the election. No definite announcements have been made as to probable candidacies with the exception of Perry Botts who will be a candidate for reelection as health commissioner.

Two commissioners are to be elected—a health commissioner and a commissioner of public works and property. Thus far Commissioner A J Lawton has made no announcement, but it is believed that he will be a candidate for reelection. Harry Hutchinson yesterday denied the published report that he was a candidate. "I am not seeking office as city commissioner," he said, "and will not be a candidate."
